Living for Today

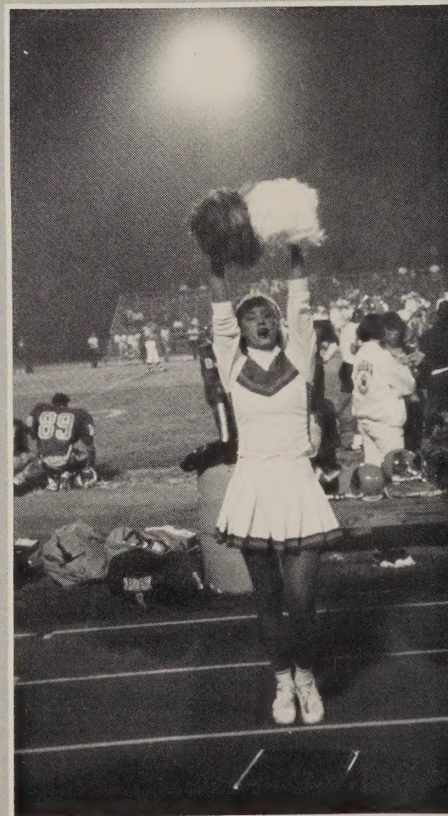

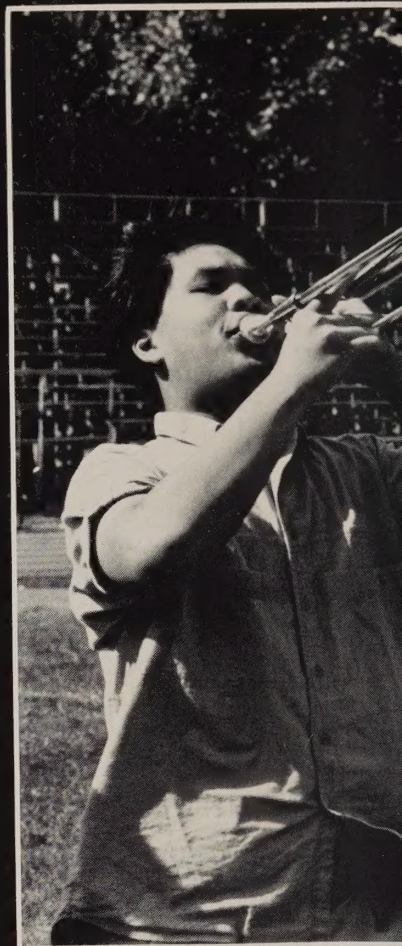

As we move into the nineties the world around us is constantly changing. Not only world wide, with the cold war ending and the falling of the Berlin Wall, but close to home, as well. The ending of construction, new teachers and drug free school zone signs were just a few changes we felt here, as students of Falls Church High School.

Sometimes not knowing what to expect from day to day can be frustrating, but we still try our hardest to cope with SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

Although William Russel seems shocked at the price of the school lunch, it doesn't seem to bother Shawn Batts and Andy Rodriguez.

Senior Layne Rice shows all her spirit for the F.C. Jaguars.

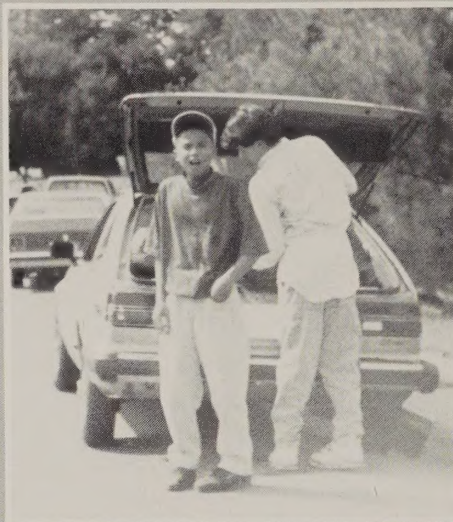

Khoa Pham, Elise Epp, Andrew Biondi, and Joy Tate liven things up at band practice.

Senior Sam Unuscavage feeds Margie Slawinski with finesse.

Student Life

“How was that party Saturday night? What’cha do this weekend? What’s the homework in math? Did you watch the game?” These are just some of the questions that are asked around Falls Church High School as we glance at the student life.

Students spent the majority of their lives at school. For seven periods, academics filled their days with tests, papers and homework. During after school hours, students could be seen participating in school activities, like clubs and sports. And on Friday nights, students and their parents poured into the stands to cheer for their jaguar team on the field.

On weekends, an emphasis was placed on other things besides school. Students attended parties, dated, hung out with friends, and occasionally did work on a paper or two. Others volunteered at homes for the elderly or hospitals, or worked to earn some extra cash. No matter what filled up their weekends, though, students looked forward to the arrival of the weekend with anticipation because they could relax and have fun.

With positive attitudes, students were able to deal with whatever was thrown at them. They were able to cope with their everyday problems and pressures, and enjoy the good times of highschool, as well, which helped when important choices had to be made between being students at work and children at play.

Joe Carroll and Anne Pace spent some of their summer together in Holland.

Sun 'N Fun

Imagine yourself lying in the sand with the sound of waves rolling up to shore. The smell of suntan oil and the sound of music captivates you. Sound good? Well, that's the way many students spent their summer, familiarizing themselves with the pleasures of the beach. Those who were not at the beach spent their summer traveling, working or bumming out at the pool.

Unfortunately the freedom's of summer must at some point come to an end, with the reality of the start of a new school year. Needless to say, the summer will always hold fun memories to plunge into the school year with.

Cruising around Clayton Lake was how Jennifer Round chose to spend her summer.

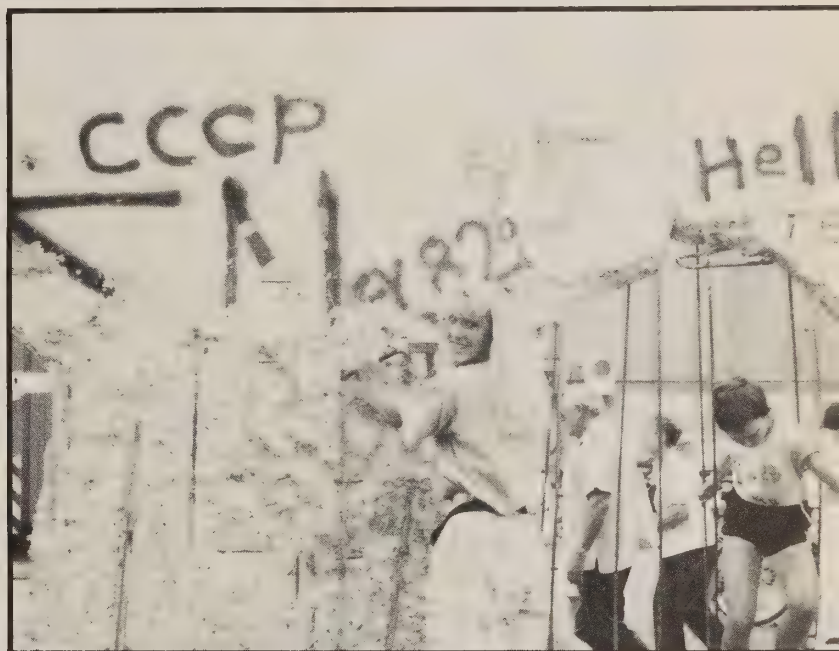

Kia Younger spends her summer at McDonald's.

Celthia Corsino and Ken Raymond spent an evening on the town in Atlantic City.

Working towards world peace, Layne Rice chipped away at the Berlin wall this summer.

Ross Stilling takes a quick nap outside the club house before his next golf match.

A day at Baltimore Harbor was always fun for friends like Jackie Rojas and Ashley Armstrong.

So Long Summer . . .

Hello Fall !!

Summer's over. It's time to put away the suntan oil and pull out the school books. Yes, it's fall again. Time to go back to school. Although autumn is the worst season for most teenagers, others look forward to it because it means it's time for football games, pep rallies, Homecoming, and much more.

So don't let the ending of summer get you down. There are a lot of things to look forward to during the fall season.

Thanh Trieu and Emily Stewart aren't quite ready to sit in desks just yet.

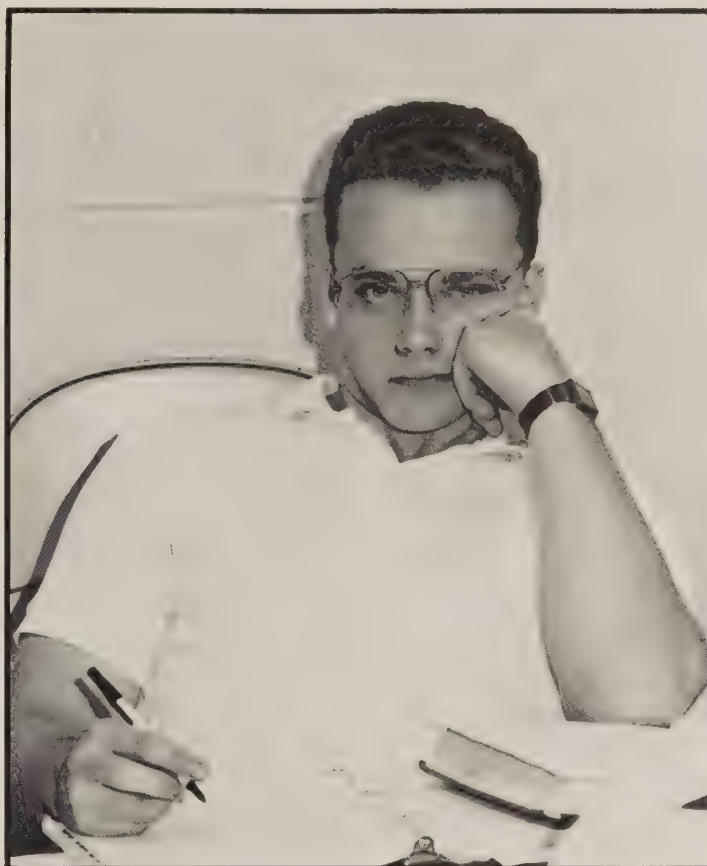

Isn't it about time you put down the sports page and picked up your textbook, Walter Martinez?

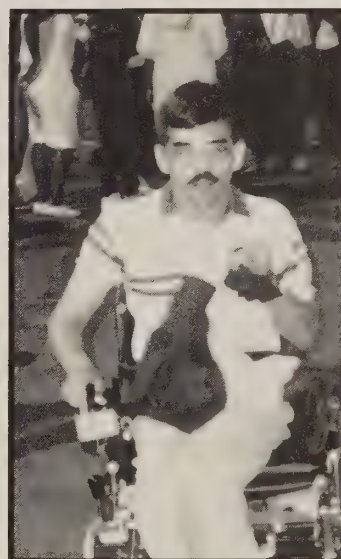

Charles Woodard and Edward Lee enjoy their lunches under the sun while the weather is still warm.

Brian Armstrong can't seem to keep his mind on his work.

The seniors were ready for the "Battle Cry" during the first pep rally.

As the Jaguars took the field against Centreville, Abel Holgiun was ready to cheer them on.

The Reigning Jaguars

On a rainy Friday night, Falls Church students gathered on the wet bleachers expecting an exciting game . . . and exciting it was! Despite the rain, students and parents still came to show their school spirit through painted faces and wild cheering. The drenched cheerleaders, wearing new uniforms, led the crowd in cheers to boost players' moral who were sliding around with Wakefield players on the muddy field. The Jaguars played their best, missing the victory by inches. We'll get them next time!!

The Junior Class float, accompanied by Kody Killion and Natalie Vail, rocked to the top and received first place.

Sophomores took second place with peace and love.

Homecoming Court- Jan Kim, Becky Snyder, Laura Meadows, Sara Mason, Ted Evans, Christin Downing, Kris Cantwell, Celia Hanley, Wenona Elliot

Ruebon Hughey led the freshmen in "holding up" third place.

With the help of Jen Daniels and Lisa Digiulio, the senior's Jag stayed alive, Travolta style.

Rainy weather did not discourage the fans from cheering on their team.

Tonight's the Night

Homecoming Dance

Have you ever wondered what Homecoming really is? The true purpose behind this traditional event is to invite the alumni back. However, it also offers the school a chance to support the team and celebrate the school's spirit. Besides, what better way to show your school spirit than to attend the Homecoming Dance? For those who came, it was the most memorable moment of the year. This year's theme was "Decades." The cafeteria was transformed into a colorful dance floor by Student Government, who spent many hours putting up the decorations. Students came to the dance in their best suits and dresses. Couples entered arm-in-arm, ready for a fun and maybe even romantic night. All in all it was a special evening spent with friends.

A look of surprise comes over Trey Baumgardner's face when Kris Cantwell accepted a dance with him.

The dance provides an excellent time for friends, Teresa Fannin, Danny Rodrigues, Adam Galegos, Chris Hovermill, and Caren Vonhoene, to get together and have fun.

For Johan Sharborg and Amy Richmond, it was a night to remember.

Shawn Batts and Lisa Gwinn dance the night away.

"School Days, School Days . . .

Dear Old Golden Rule Days . . ."

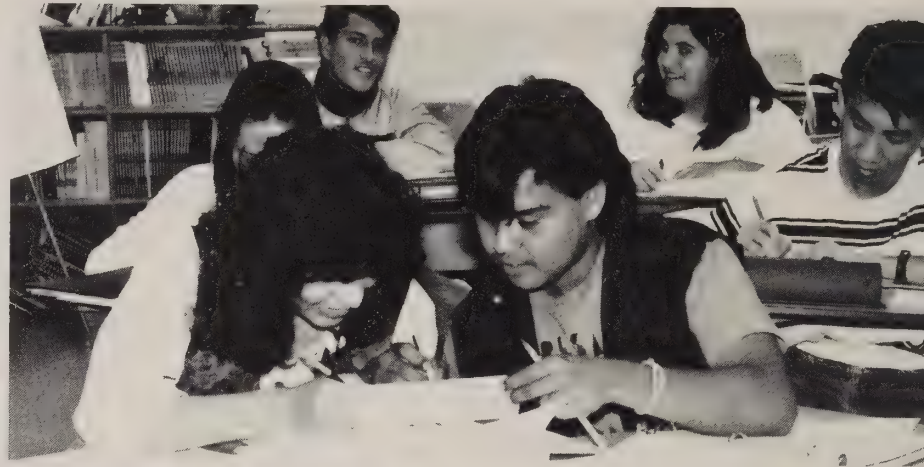

"Reading, Writing, Arithmetic . . ." That could be one song that describes your high school years. Many students were asked the question, "If you could sum up your high school years so far in a song or words of a song, what song would it be" It's definitely not an easy question to answer because how could one song represent years of high school? One would be surprised as to how many possible songs there really are. Though you may not be able to think of one right off hand, give it a day or two and there will always be that one special song.

Acquiring a job is the first step towards adulthood that most teenagers will take. Having a job teaches students responsibility and the "ways of the world". Earning money is one of the most popular reasons why teenagers get jobs, but there are some unusual reasons as well. Junior Tony Hardesty got a job because "There was this awesome looking girl working there", and Senior Mike Carey feels that teenagers get jobs to get away from their parents. Whatever reasons students may have, working is a very important part of growing up. Then again, there are always those who agree with Brett Yesukaitis's view that students "should just stay home and live off their parents".

Life After Seventh

2:18 - Gather your books

2:19 - Get into running position

2:20 - Go!

Free at last, you rush to get home. Now that you're there, what next? You could watch t.v, go shopping or toss the football around. Or you could be different like Rachel Trujillo, who heads straight to the mall to embarrass people in public. Maybe that's just not you. Brian Stuebner heads for drama rehearsal or home to get his fencing equipment for a mighty duel. Still not right for you?

Another suggestion would be to take Anne Kronebush's advice and try cooking weird foods. If you have a fear of cooking, you could always do what Adam Wood does . . . antagonize 7-eleven clerks while sipping on a Super Big Gulp.

If you just like hanging around the house, try taking Yash Khemani's suggestion, and catch some Z's . Maybe tomorrow you'll "dare to be different!"

Brian Stuebner is in his gear and is ready to duel any worthy opponent.

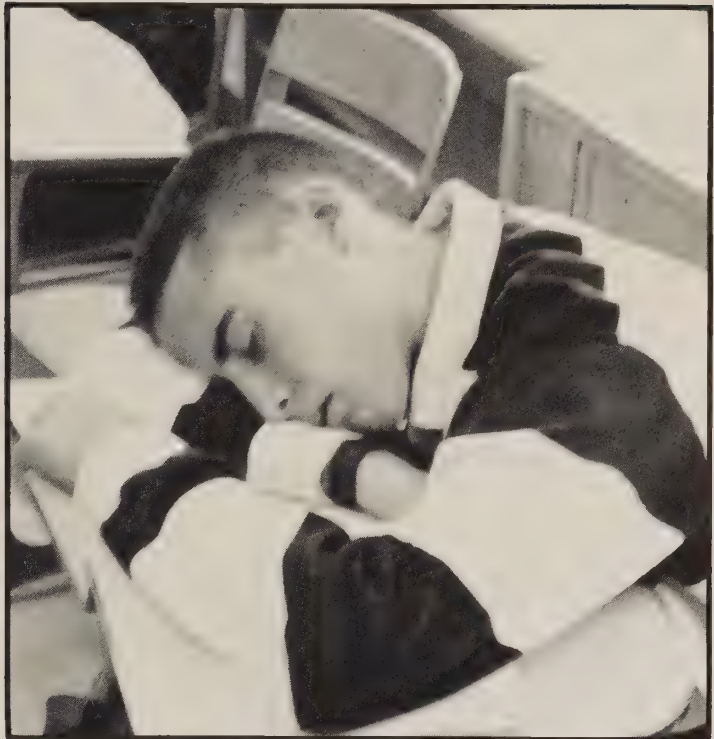

Adam Wood shows his true feelings toward 7 - eleven clerks.

Pride Week!!!

This year Pride Week was held from January 7-11, but because of school closings due to the snow, another Pride Week was scheduled from March 11-15. Throughout the first scheduled Pride Week, a specific "dress" was designated to each day. The days were: Monday-mismatch, Tuesday-beach, Wednesday-toga, Thursday-class (where each class chooses something to do), Friday-spirit.

During this week, many other school activities took place. Among them were hall and door decorating, where each class decorated a certain hall. This was done with balloons, streamers, posters and even Christmas lights! The halls were then judged and the class that won received money to put in their treasury. The door decorating contest consisted of clubs and organizations that decorated their sponsor's door. The members related a theme to their club or organization and filled the door with papers, pictures, drawings, and sayings. Again, judges picked the best door and that club or organization that won received money.

Pride Week is designed to let students, teachers, and administrators loosen up and show their spirit. However, here at Falls Church it doesn't have to be Pride Week to see that the people take pride in their school.

She was sitting outside of the Sweetheart ballroom crying for she also loved to dance but her date wouldn't dance with her. The king approached her, swept her off her feet and pronounced her Queen of F.C.H.S. 1991 Sweetheart Dance.

Academics

Academics play an important role in not only teaching students facts about each subject in school, but also in helping them learn where their interests lie.

Raising expectations for Falls Church High School was a major goal this year. The new seven period day enabled students to select an elective course that they might not have been able to enjoy previously. Classes such as restaurant trades and child care offer hands on experience, when book learning is not enough. Academic clubs place members in real life situations while also reinforcing student participation in their own learning.

Falls Church also offers students a wide variety of advanced classes. From Gifted and Talented to college level A.P. courses, students were faced with a more challenging curriculum.

Future education and career decisions are greatly influenced by what students learn at Falls Church, where JAGS are hard AT WORK.

N.H.S.

The purpose of the National Honor Society is to reward students for excelling academically, while helping Falls Church and the community at the same time. The N.H.S. officers this year were Melissa Morris, President, Loan Hguyen, Vice President, Anne Nguyen, Secretary, and Gianni LaRosa, Treasurer.

To be a member of the N.H.S., one must either be a senior or a junior, have a 3.5 grade point average, and show character, leadership and service in both their school and community. Members find it an asset to belong to the N.H.S., and that being a part of it is something to take pride in. As a result, the members work hard to stay in.

Lighting a candle, new members are inducted at a special ceremony.

Business

The National Business Honor Society, under the leadership of President Ann Nguyen, is made up of seven students who have excelled in at least two years of business courses, earning a B average or better both years. Member Joe Carroll comments, "We are looking for the N.B.H.S. to expand next year, and to definitely become more involved in activities at Falls Church."

Margie Saine, Marianna Vera, Debbie Weisshaar, Karen Evans, Katherine Witham, Jenny Perry, Laura Leighton

Spanish

The Spanish National Honor Society is for those students who have demonstrated excellence in the Spanish language. Students must have received a 4.0 GPA in Spanish 1, and maintained a 3.0 in Spanish 2 and 3. Throughout the year the members participated in many fundraisers, the majority of which were bake sales.

French

The French National Honor Society consists of a few members who have worked hard and have been given credit for mastering the French requirements. The members held activities including bake sales, parties, and a dinner at a French restaurant, not only having fun with their peers, but learning about French culture as well.

Something To Think About

Quick!

What is the correct title of the children's story about a boasting speedster who lost to a plodding slowpoke in a race? Sounds impossible? Well, not if you are on Falls Church's It's Academic team.

David Falcon, Trucle Nguyen, and Amy Savich were selected as the official team members through a school competition between students and teachers. Alternates were Richard Chiu and Mary Chiu. Members spent every Friday going through intense practice with their sponsor Mr. Margrave to prepare for the TV show. Starting this year, the team attended county meets in which they did very well. In their first tournament at Georgetown they placed in the top ten and their performance continued to improve. Although Falls Church came in third on the television competition, we have strong hopes for next year.

The team is congratulated for their fine performance against Park View and St. Albans.

It All ADDS Up To An AweSUM Year

"The Varsity Math Team was experiencing a renaissance. Participation levels were at an all-time high. We were among the leading schools in the county in the number of participants on the math team even though we were one of the smallest schools in the county," remarked sponsor Bill Marthinsen.

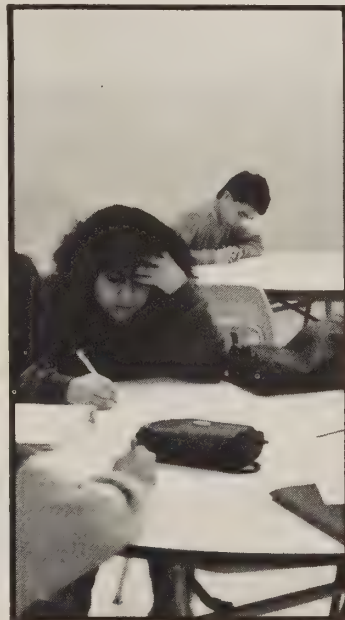

Because of the increasing interest, the weekly meets were moved from the regular classroom into the cafeteria to accommodate all mathletes. Two additional competitions were held this year, a one day state contest, and the American High School Mathematics Exam (AHSME).

This year's County competition was much improved. State competition currently placed Falls Church among the top 20 schools out of over 75 schools state-wide. Our second state meet saw the team achieve its first perfect score in over five years. And one national meet had Falls Church placed second in the entire Capitol Area. There is strong hope for an even better performance next year if student involvement keeps up.

“Kids Say The Darndest Things!”

Falls Church High School gives parents in the community an inexpensive alternative to day care through our child care program. Parents can bring their 3-5 year old kids to be watched by students who coordinate activities with the kids as part of their course. The class is taught by Mrs. Laviolette and it teaches the students about safe, fun, and educational things for the kids to do. Students who take the class not only learn child care, but they also get the satisfaction of taking care of the kids.

What's Cookin'??

Pizza, spaghetti, roastbeef, cookies, cakes and pies. Do these foods sound good to you? For students taking Gourmet Foods and Restaurant Trades, these are just a few of the many dishes they learn to prepare.

In Gourmet Foods I, students learn the basics of American cooking. Students learn to prepare simple meals and the importance of a balance diet. The level II course focuses on international food.

Like Gourmet Foods, there are also two levels in Restaurant Trades. Both courses consist of listening to lectures, watching demonstrations, and preparing food.

Restaurant Trades often makes food for faculty lunches, and special occasions. After the completion of both courses, students have the opportunity to go out and work in a restaurant.

Although students were sad to see Mrs. Whitelock, who taught for 14 years, leave this year, Falls Church was lucky to gain a new teacher, Ms. King. She has added to the experience of Mr. Simpson, who has taught for 7 years. Both teachers were continual assets to the Gourmet Foods and Restaurant Trades departments.

Just For Looks

Cosmetology

When the cosmetology class was asked if the course was an easy A, the students answered in a unison of "no's". "There's more to cosmetology than just hair and nails," said La'Shell Harris. Students are graded on their work skills, manipulative abilities, and written work. The course is divided into two classes. Level I includes topics on the anatomy of the head, face and arms. One student remarked that it was like taking biology all over again. Level II provides a laboratory setting for students to achieve fundamental skills in all phases of beauty culture through practice.

"Our main objective is that they will pass the Virginia state exam and receive their licenses afterwards," commented their teacher Jacki Shenton. "And from the looks of their work, it seems they definitely will."

Rayetta Freedman, Stella Noussis and Tanya Morgan take time out to pose with their mannequins.

Students from other schools are invited to enter the course. Here Christy Kilgore from Fairfax H.S. practices her skills on Tammy Harris's hair.

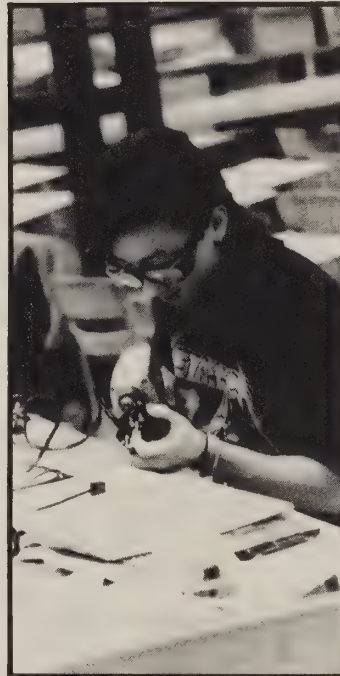

Do guys really know what's under the hood? Demian Dennett does!

Engineers of Tomorrow

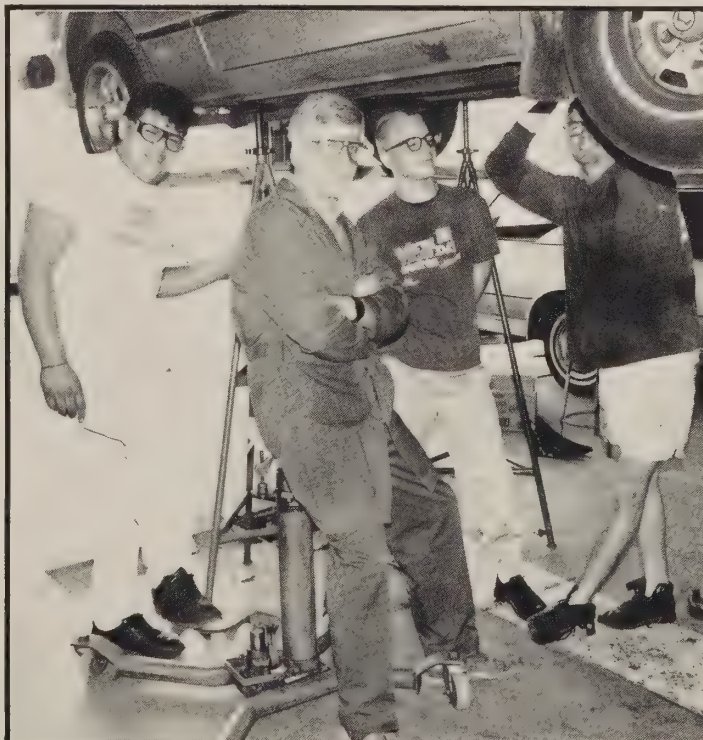

Electronics

Some people think this course is just working with sophisticated tools and machines. Well, what is Electronics exactly? It is a course offered in several different levels. Level I involves safety practices and various kinds of electronics testing among other topics. It provides a foundation for further study in Electronics II, which also includes working with computer circuits.

"Out of all the years I have been here this year's class is the best I've had so far," remarked the instructor Mr. Gaylord about his students. In response Jorge Anderson said "Mr. Gaylord is very nice and helpful except for a couple of corny jokes once in a while."

Too busy to smile for the camera, Anh Kiet Huynh puts the last screw into his electrical invention.

Auto Mechanics

"Auto Mechanics is a course which enables the participating students to obtain specific mechanical skills and improve their thought processes," remarked instructor Joel Rosen. Studying the systems of the cars and learning their various components are some of the objectives included in Auto Mechanics I. Auto Mechanics II prepares students to enter auto mechanics as a career field. Both levels involve hands-on-work and the completion of twelve tasks each quarter. One of the tasks students enjoy doing is working on cars for people in the community. This kind of hands-on-work will help them in the future.

Joseph Soriano and a classmate work hard to finish their electronics projects before the bell rings.

Work on this years yearbook began when five members of the yearbook staff including our new sponsor, Miss Barretto, attended Jostens yearbook camp at Hidden Valley Ski Resort in Pennsylvania. Those who went to camp worked hard together on chosing the theme for this years yearbook, SIGNS OF THE TIMES. They also brought back many new ideas and techniques for the whole class to benefit from.

From the beginning of the school year, the whole staff worked hard together trying to produce the most memorable yearbook yet. This years staff included: Layout Editor - Tory Lopes, Copy Editor - Melissa Morris, Business Editor - Anne Palace, and Advisor - Karen Evans.

More than ever, this years staff has had to put in many long hours, after-school and on weekends to get the job done and meet publishing deadlines. "At first it was hard getting used to the large class, but eventually we learned to work together and get things done."

Reporters for Falls Church's newspaper, The Jaguar Journal, were frequently seen roaming the halls during seventh period this year, tracking down stories. But going out for interviews and information were only a few of the tasks staff members had to accomplish. For each issue, the staff had brainstorming sessions to decide what events and topics would be covered. Then the hard part began. Each reporter did research, interviewed, attended events, and took notes to prepare to write his story. Meeting deadlines was hard, but most everybody had first drafts ready to be edited by other students. Drafts were marked up, revised, then edited by the newspaper sponsor, Lori Bouchard, and finalized. The articles, written on the MacIntosh computers in the lab, were saved on disks and transferred to the computer in the publications room. There, the layout editor arranged and rearranged the stories to fit into the paper and look good at the same time. The pages of the paper were printed out on the laser printer, with space left to place photographs. Photographs had been taken earlier to accompany stories and were at that time sized to fit the layout. After all that activity, the paper was sent to the printer, who put it all together and sent it back. At last, on Friday mornings, the papers were distributed throughout the school so Falls Church students could be informed and entertained.

Members of the journalism class enjoy looking for new and interesting ideas for the newspaper.

Sports

Each athlete here at Falls Church High School, from the MVP to the last one off the bench, has to work to achieve his own level of success. Success is relative in athletics, with accomplishments varying from setting a course record to just making the team.

People who are not willing to commit the time and effort required to improve, are usually the ones cut from the team. The survivors, while not all being the superstars, are serious about their sport. This common interest, along with long hours of sweating together, produces a distinct sense of camaraderie. The better that teammates know and like each other, the better they will perform. A close basketball team eventually reaches the point where players can sense where their teammates will be. Athletes involved in individual sports rely on each other for moral support. Team spirit is a vital part of athletics- a closer team is mentally tougher.

Sports require skill and dedication. For all those involved in sports, from the athletes themselves, to the coaches and trainers, to the spectators who always add a sense of confidence to the team the support, each one deserves respect for the energy that he expended . . . no matter what the outcome. Each athlete sets a goal and must strive to meet it, and to accomplish these goals that the set, the athletes at Falls Church have to cross over ROUGH TERRAIN.

Fighting to the Finish

Despite their overwhelming pressures to win, win, win, the Falls Church Jaguars Varsity Football Team gave everything they had toward a successful season. Head Coach Greg Hamilton said, "The players met my expectations and went out and played every game very hard." Their big win of the season was when they beat the Marshall Statesmen 24-21 on November 21st. Mike

Monahan kicked the winning field goal. Captain John Baumgardner said, "I didn't play in that game but I was very happy for the team." Looking forward to playing again next year, Junior Captain Mike Monahan said, "I hope to see more players on the field next year. Even though we didn't win a lot of games, we still got out there and accomplished a lot."

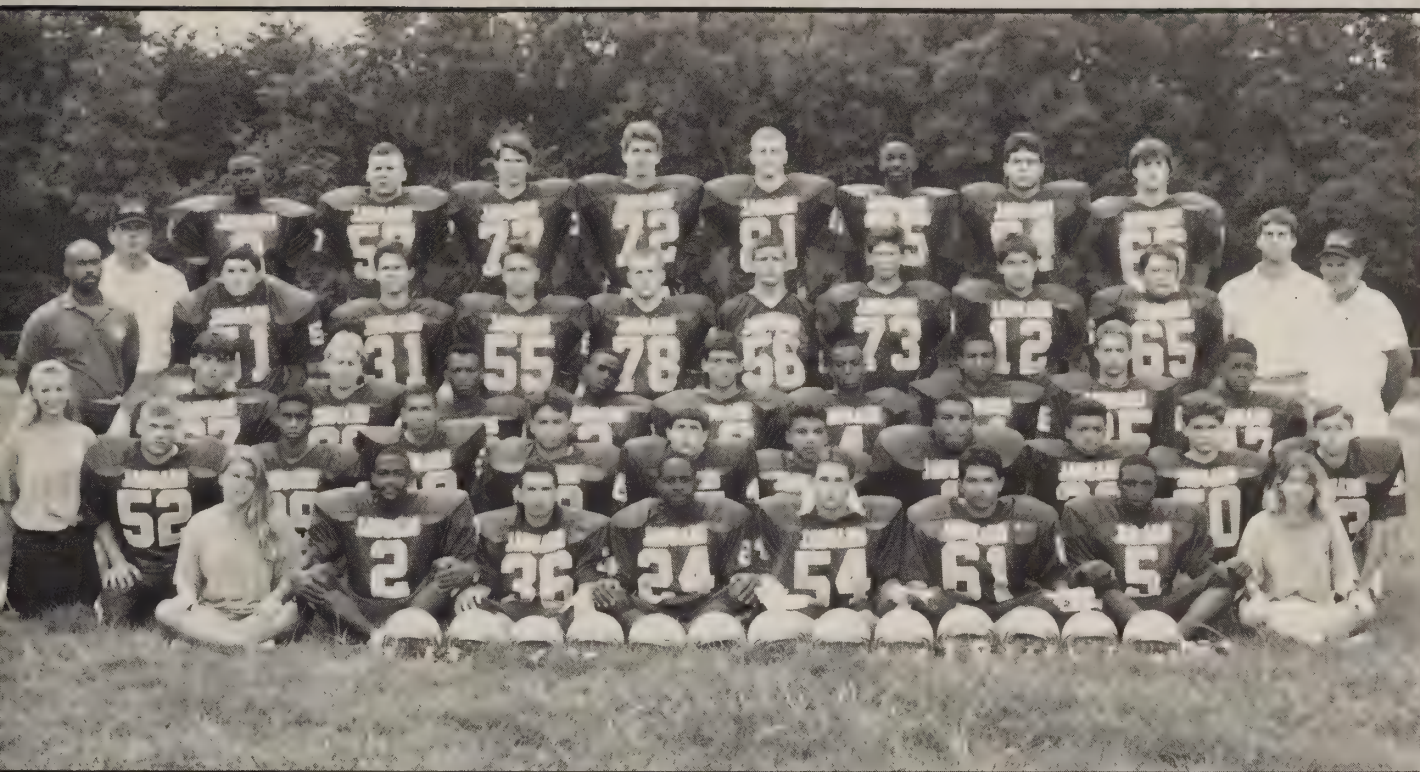

Jaguars show their dedication by practicing in the pressing August heat.

Sherwin Johnson, searching for his man, leads the pack onto the field.

New and Improved

It was a great season for the J.V. and Freshmen football teams. The freshmen were successful with their tremendous victory over Fairfax and ended the season with a record of 1-6.

"Success a lot of the time is not measured by how many games you win. Success is when the players go out for the J.V. team the following year," said freshmen Head Coach Mr. Metcalf.

J.V. had a tough season but kept on playing their hardest until the end. "The most important thing was that we never gave up," commented John Vetter. The team is convinced that next year will be a good one with the experience and strength of the rising freshmen.

Both teams are looking forward to an improved season next year, and will be ones to reckon with.

Varsity Makes a Comeback

Varsity Field Hockey

Working hard was a major part of the Varsity Field Hockey team. Because of all their efforts, the team did extremely well—varsity had its first win in two years. They topped the season off by winning their last two games against Stuart. Cheryl Karwois commented, “I think the whole team gave more than 100% and I was proud of how well we played.”

The teams’ new coach, Coach O’hara, really pushed the team hard to play the best that they could everyday. “I believe that the future of this team will be a bright one. Falls Church will soon be up there with the best,” commented the coach. Varsity not only played their hardest during every game, but they were more aggressive and more “psyched” than they had been in any previous year. This will definitely pay-off in the future.

TALENT AND DETERMINATION.

These two words describe Falls Church High School's JV field hockey team. The season record was a terrific 2-5-3. The team played so great during their five ties, they consider them wins.

Coach Burner replies, "I was very proud of the team and I am looking forward to working with the girls next season. I know it will be a winning season because of their determination."

The JV players were enthusiastic about how great the season went. Vicky Toth commented, "I think we played really well this season and I was surprised to see how talented our team could be when we gave it 100%."

Causing A Raquet

"The team really pulled through this year. We worked hard every day, and it definitely showed," said Margie Saine. Not only did the girls tennis team do well this year, they finished with an 8-4 record for the season, the first winning record the team has had in ten years.

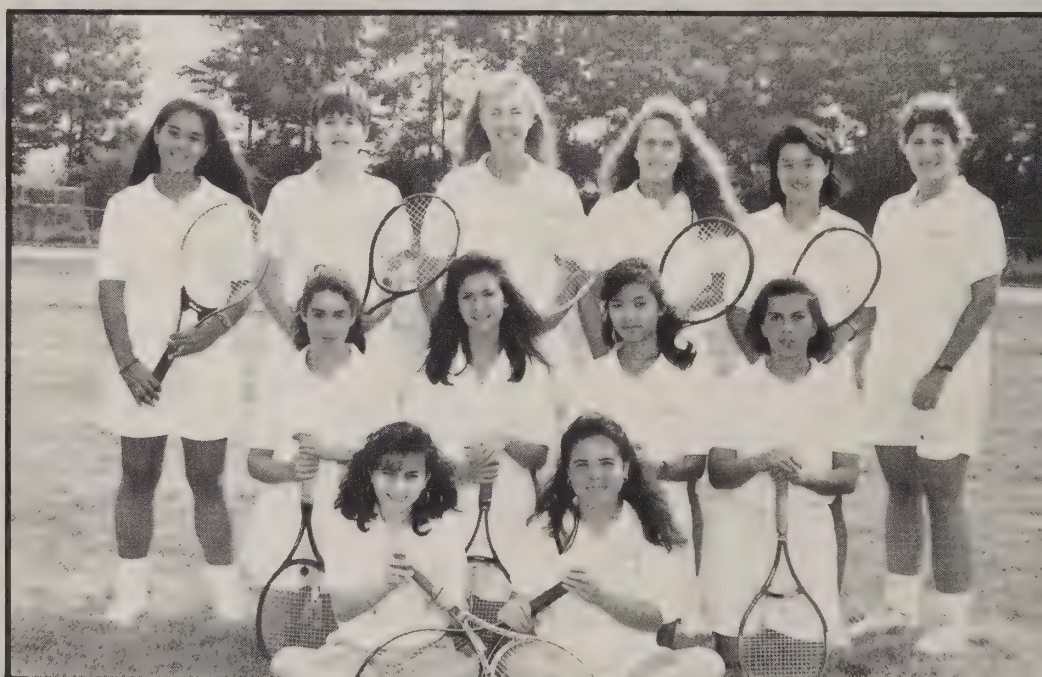

There were several factors leading to the outstanding season. One of the most noticeable was the new coach, Jeanne Kelly. Coach Kelly was new to Falls Church High School, but not all together, for she played on the tennis team here as well, just five years ago. Strongness in the team was another factor leading to the winning season. With only one player lost to graduation, the girls tennis team had experience when most other teams did not, and this experience showed. Adding the final touch to one of the best seasons ever, two players, Karine Vettraino and Melissa Morris, made it to the all-district team as undefeated players, and Margie Saine was named honorable mention to the all-district team.

"The team has set high goals for next year, and with alot of hard work, and determination, I know that the team can achieve these goals," commented Coach Kelly. Not only are the girls expecting another winning record, but are casting their eyes towards district championships as well. Thyra Freeberg added, "We have a real shot at it. We're getting closer and closer to it every year, and with more experience and time on the courts, we have a real chance. We're looking forward to next year."

Cross Country

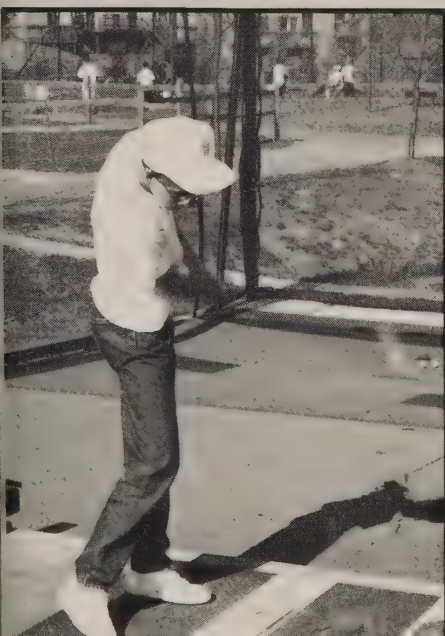

The F.C. cross-country team had a season marked by incredible improvement and personal achievement. Even though there were not enough girls to make up a team that was able to compete, those that came out had a very gratifying season. As for the boys team, Coach Panagos was extremely pleased with their performance. Since there were seven novice runners on the team who were mostly freshmen, the members are confident that next year will be great. Coach Panagos adds that "it was a fun season and I wouldn't trade it for anything!"

Coach Revercomb, Michael Bailey, James Carey, Trey Baumgardner, Mike Spinnelli, Rob Harris, Andrew Brown, Ross Stilling

Golf

Although the FCHS golf team had a terrific turnout and new Coach Revercomb, the team had a tough season with many obstacles in their path. One such obstacle was the lack of experience on the course. Returning players Brendan McEvoy and Mike Baily showed leadership to a young team full of new players. The team is expecting a strong season next year with only two of their eight players graduating.

Hitting away, Michael Bailey practices for the up coming match.

High Hoops

Practice makes perfect. That is what Falls Church is based on. And practicing six days a week certainly paid off for the Jaguars. Although the team lost a great deal of experience due to graduating seniors, the season surpassed expectations. "Because of losing a lot of height last year, I thought that coming into the season would be a hard transition to make for the team. But I realized that we had real team unity, and I'd take unity over height anyday," commented Brady Cox.

Dribble, dribble, dribble, pass, shoot, wooshh, 2 POINTS! This is characteristic of the J.V. Boy's Basketball team. This year's team consisted of twelve players who succeeded in conquering the necessary fundamentals and skills of basketball. Withstanding the long tiresome practices paid off as the J.V. team began to master the techniques essential for a successful season. The players positive attitude and motivation made the group a unified team. The team actually began to see their hardwork pay off as the season progressed. As one member put it, "Playing J.V. ball really prepares us to go on and play at the Varsity level."

This year the Falls Church Freshmen Boy's B-ball team had a season marked by incredible improvement and personal achievement. For the first time in many years, there were so many students who tried out, that cuts had to be made. The group that was chosen to be the freshmen team was filled with talent and promise. Their aggressive overall attitude led to strong team unity both on and off the court, and restored pride in the school name. Because of these factors, Coach Humphries feels that this could be the best freshmen team he ever had.

Starting Fresh

Although playing on an organized team was a new experience for many of the girls, they did extremely well this season. Coach Kelly comments, "I think the team is coming along. The girls are working real hard, and I think that they will improve throughout the season."

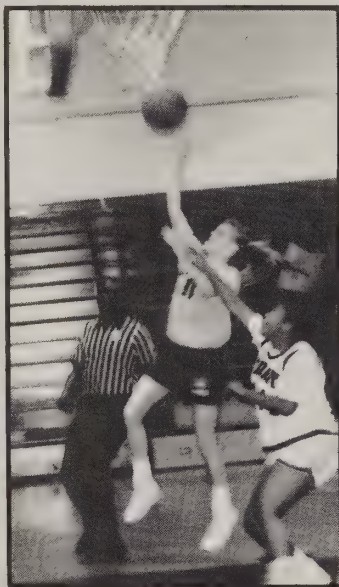

The girls worked hard, practicing six days a week learning the principles of the game. Each learned from her mistakes and improved as the season progressed. The players put a lot of effort and enthusiasm into what they knew was a great team, all the while working very hard to be the best they could. The girls not only had victories on the court, but had fun as well!

All of the girls played every game with great enthusiasm and spirit, never giving up or losing hope. Coach Thorpe comments, "We worked hard to be the best that we could be and had a great season. The girls worked wonderfully together and were always willing to help one another out." Alice Cooney agrees, "I had a great time playing on the team, in addition to meeting new people and making new friends." The teams performance on the court definitely shows that hard work does pay off.

The girls Varsity basketball team is one team of superiority. With all the hard work and dedication, they managed to master the fundamentals of basketball. They improved their skill, steadily, game after game, with an increasing number of victories. Their talent and spirit can only explain this challenging team, for it was one rewarding season for everyone.

Coach Boore was an inspiration to the team as well, and encouraged them positively. The incredible chemistry among the players showed for a worthwhile season.

Despite the fact that the team was small, the dedication and motivation of each runner led to personal successes. As the season progressed, the runners saw their times drop and felt a sense of accomplishment.

Having a coach who is a Falls Church Alumni and a runner herself, helped the team a great deal and inspired them to give it their all. Anne Palace said, "Carmen has had a very positive impact on the team and has worked closely with every individual."

All The Right Moves

Falls Church High School has many activities to offer its students, but wrestling is probably one of the most demanding after-school activities that a student can take on.

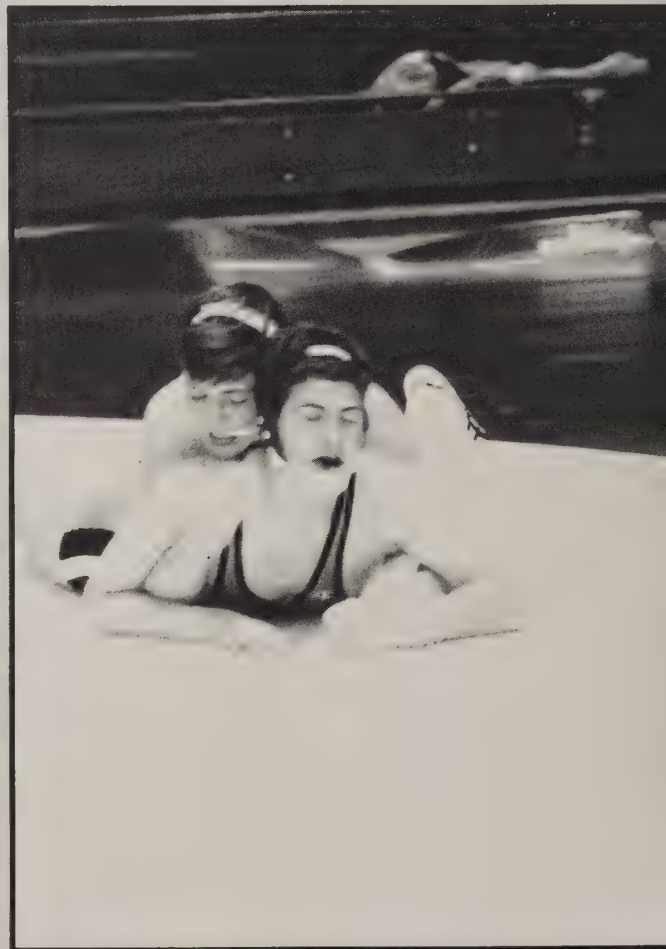

This year's Junior Varsity team had many inexperienced members, but expectations were high. Many of the new wrestlers spent much time learning the techniques of wrestling and each looks forward to qualifying for the Varsity team next year.

Coach Panagos felt that students needed three things to succeed as wrestlers- desire, dedication and discipline, or as he referred to them- the "3-D's". Falls Church Varsity wrestlers showed that they were capable of these three elements, and succeeded in making the 1990-91 team a strong one!

Slippery When Wet

"Sweating, feeling butterflies in your stomach, your heart beat flying. That's how every swimmer feels when they wait their turn behind the starting blocks," Celia Hanley explained. "Even though it's not the greatest feeling, it helps you concentrate on your event and definitely makes you swim faster." The Falls Church Swim and Dive team worked hard together this season to achieve their goals and to win their meets.

"We lost a lot of depth last year but we also gained a lot of new swimmers who worked hard and learned fast. Everyone was really dedicated to making the season a winning one," Kath Witham commented. The team practiced Monday through Thursday afternoons, while friends were enjoying a social life, the swimmers and divers competed every Friday night. One factor that contributed to the successful season was the new coach, Doug Burns. "Doug added a lot to the team. He wasn't afraid to get in the water with the swimmers", commented Alex Foos.

Another factor leading to a winning season was the team unity and spirit. "The team had a lot of spirit. It's really good for swimmers and divers to hear everyone cheering before and during the event," said Donny Dean. Melissa Morris sums it up, "Everyone on the team gave their all everyday in the pool, and it really paid off. We had a super season!"

Too Hot to Handle

Dancing in the spotlight of every home football and Friday night basketball game, the drill team has been dancing great for the last three years. With each year, the drill team has brought new choreography to their routines to entertain the fans at halftime.

Two driving forces of the team, advisor Mrs. Henderson, and captain Christine Downing, supported new members, and brought needed experience and knowledge into their practices everyday.

The fans expected a great performance from the drill team at every game, and the team gave their all to make every halftime a memorable one.

Varsity Cheerleading

The Falls Church Cheerleaders officially began their 1990-1991 season in May after try-outs. Separate squads were picked for football, basketball, and wrestling. In June, the Varsity and J.V. cheerleaders went to camp at Randolph Macon College in Ashland, Virginia. At the camp, they learned new cheers and chants. They also were taught new and exciting ways to involve their crowd.

The main purpose of Cheerleading at F.C.H.S. is to promote spirit throughout the school and community. Besides cheering, the Varsity cheerleaders helped at Back to School and College night. They also hosted a dinner for the football team and boy's and girl's basketball teams before their seasons started. The wrestling team also received a complementary dinner, but only after their season was over. The Varsity Cheerleaders also sponsored a Little Kids Cheer Clinic for Grades K-8.

Freshmen Cheerleaders were chosen at the beginning of the school year, and were provided with a new sponsor, Mrs. Ganzer. The J.V. sponsor is Ms. Martin and the Varsity sponsor is Mrs. Jacki Shenton.

It's a Hit!

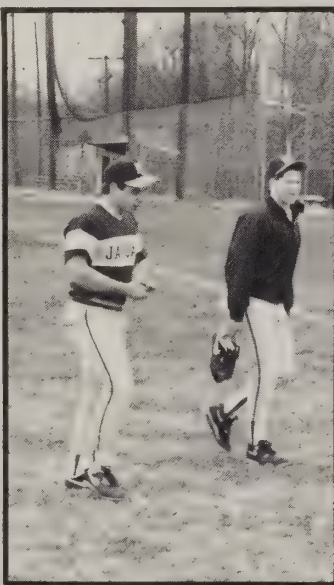

Once again this year's Varsity Baseball team was coached by Jim Thorpe, who has been coaching the team for many years. With only a few of last years teammates gone, the team consisted mostly of returning players. Having this advantage made it a lot easier for the players to work together. Consisting of 18 players, the team accomplished a lot and received help from JV at the end of the season. Mr. Thorpe counted on the teams spirit and dedication to get them through this year. Putting in long hours and effort helped to make the team stronger.

Having a Ball

The Varsity Softball team, coached by Wojo, had an excellent season. Every individual put forth their best to make the team a success. Practicing everyday with skills such as batting, pitching, and running improved the team dramatically, which made the team a strong force to be contended with. This year's team has been the most talented in several years. Wojo said, "There is a lot of spirit and enthusiasm and the girls worked really hard."

Just For Kicks

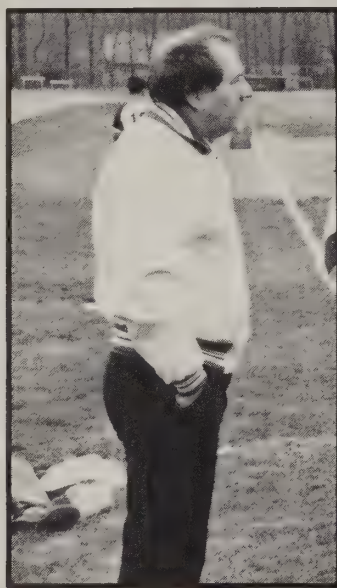

The Falls Church Varsity Boys Soccer team had an extraordinary season. Considering the loss of nine senior players from last year, the team's spirit and enthusiasm helped them to overcome the loss and to excel as a team. The team was coached by Mr. Humphries and assistant coaches King and Levar. The coaches stressed dedication, techniques, and above all, team unity. The team, together, had the determination and will to succeed. This determination helped the team to have a great season. Also, helped them to show that they will be even more powerful and tough to beat next year.

Lead by Coach Navarro, the J.V. team worked hard five days a week and sacrificed some weekends to acquire the skills that they would need to make the team more successful, all of which proved to be essential to achieve victory. After the teams first scrimmage against McLean, Kenny Aguilar said, "We were off to a rough start, but with a little rest and more practicing we were able to turn the team around." And turn it around they did, completing a very successful season for Falls Church.

Alive and Kicking

The girls had a strong season this year, considering they had a very young team and entirely new coaches. Ms. O'Hara and Mrs. Armstrong coached the team and had a positive impact on the players. The girls only got to play each team once, so they had to capitalize on each game individually. Ms. O'Hara comments on the teams coming years saying, "There is no other direction that we will go but ahead . . . hard." This certainly shows, reflecting on the past season, that the Falls Church Varsity Girls Soccer team, has proven that they will be a team to look out for in the future.

With the hard work and dedication of the players and their new coach, Mr. Derflinger, they managed to learn and play the sport more effectively and have many victories. Although not all of the victories were earned on the field, they were always earned in the players' hearts.

Like the Varsity team, they also had a tough schedule. Because they were a very spirited team, the girls never gave up both on and off the field. This showed to all that the team has the potential to advance to the Varsity level.

On The Run

The Spring Track team did exceptionally well this season with a tremendous turn-out of people. "I was amazed to see so many people come out for the team," commented junior Julian Ackert.

The triumph of the team was not only due to the runners, but also the coaches. Girls coach Mr. Panagos said, "If these two teams, girls and boys, can continue to improve, we may have a District Championship within our grasp!" And the Jaguars won't stop at districts. The team had its eyes on regionals and maybe even states. So as the gun goes off and the runners start the race, look for Falls Church High School to be in the lead.

The Boys Tennis Team went through a big change this year-the addition of a new coach, Jeff Peck. "We thought we might not have a coach . . . that we weren't going to be able to play at all. It wasn't until close to the beginning of the season that we got Coach Peck," recalled Milan Patnaik. But once both the enthusiastic coach and players got on the courts, it was apparent that the upcoming season would be successful. 2 hours every day were spent on serves, backhands, and conditioning. Along with talent and encouragement, team spirit often was what kept the team on top of the competition.

Afshin Rashtian sets his stance and prepares to return a serve.

With a powerful forehand, Milan Patnaik returns the ball over the net to his opponent.

Quoc Le claims that school is a cinch.

Dameon Young can't resist giving Michaellee Smith a friendly hug.

People

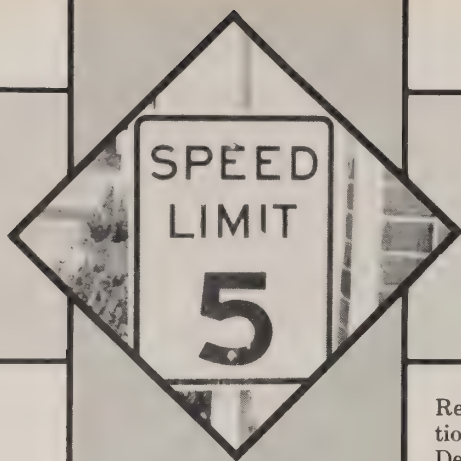

Ask the students why they like going to Falls Church High School and some might say the academics or the sports. However, most are likely to say it is the people who make the school special. Falls Church hosts a wide variety of unique students who enjoy a close relationship with everyone, both faculty and fellow classmates.

As the years gradually move forward, students find themselves shifting gears to increased speed. Freshmen were the “new kids”, lost and inexperienced in a brand new school. Sophomores breathed a sigh of relief as they took a last look at being underclassmen and imagined their lives as upperclassmen. Juniors worked hard in their “most important year of schooling”, and seniors took their last look at high school, as their eyes turned towards the future. As students increased speed, they also raised expectations for personal achievement, which they strived to meet as the year moved on.

Although each student at Falls Church is an individual, they all believed in one thing- success in both themselves and in their school.

Responsibility - syn. obligations, duties, jobs, functions. Definition - What a freshman must do to get through high school.

As the class of 1994 entered high school they were given many responsibilities they were expected to fulfill. Among these responsibilities were having fun, doing homework, having fun, making new friends, having fun, trying to look like anything but freshmen, and having fun!

Expectation - syn. goals, confidence, prospect, assurance. Definition - What every freshman hopes for.

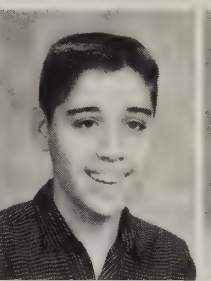

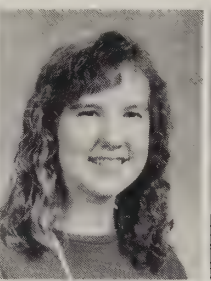

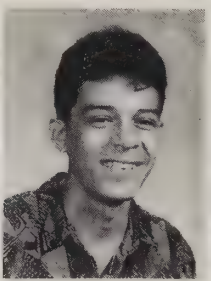

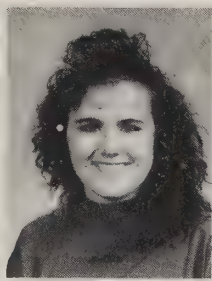

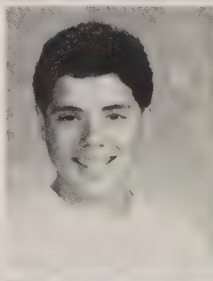

New expectations for the class of 1994 included showing school and class spirit, getting good grades, getting to class on time, getting good grades, getting involved in academic clubs, and most of all . . . getting good grades!

Despite the drastic change from junior high to senior high, the class of 1994 handled the new responsibilities well and definitely lived up to expectations!

Moving on from intermediate to high school is a big step for you, socially and academically. There are many new feelings associated with being a freshman. Worry is what some might feel as they prepare to wander the eternal halls of the unfamiliar school they will be spending their next 4 years. Another feeling associated with being a freshman is nervousness as you worry if you'll be "accepted" and be in the "in crowd". Some might feel happy to finally enter high school, and some might feel relieved, "Only 4 more years of SCHOOL!!"

Looking back at the past year brings back many memories; for example the good times you spent with your friends. Remember all those events that were awaiting us like the pep rallies, the sports, and the dances.

Along with the privileges came the responsibilities. Some were the dreaded task of working to the best of your academic abilities, and getting to class on time. Many upperclassmen underestimate the abilities of the freshmen, but WATCH OUT, the freshmen are on the loose!

SOPHOMORES

Let's Hear it for Sophomore Spirit

The class cheered, "Sophomores! Sophomores!", as loud as they could while the cheerleaders began to lead them in the battle cry. Ignoring the boos and hisses from the other classes, the sophomores knew that they had as much, if not more spirit as any senior, junior, or freshman. At the Homecoming Pep Rally, on October 12, 1990, Sophomore Jane Kim wheeled her tricycle around the corner to gain on the Junior in the lead, and the noise grew louder with every inch she moved!

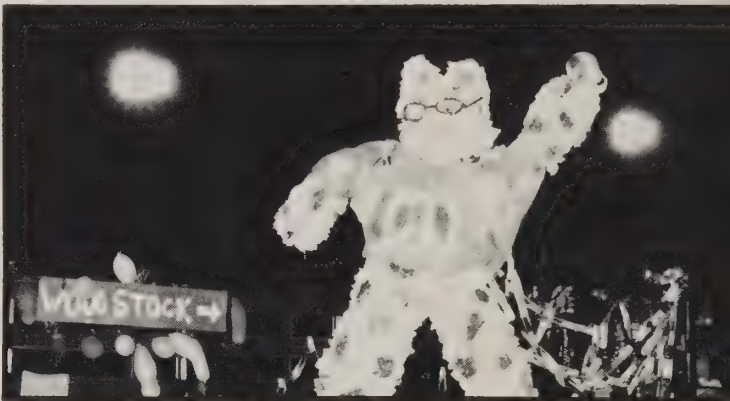

The theme for Falls Church's Homecoming was the Decades, and the sophomores chose the 60's. The float started slowly, but quickly took shape into a Jaguar wearing a tie-dyed, hippie T-shirt. The whole class nervously awaited the float results, until they were finally announced. Juniors: first place, Sophomores: second place... that was all that they needed to hear! The sophomores had won 2nd place!! They were ecstatic.

Sophomore Spirit was shown all around the school throughout the year. It was shown not only in the pep rallies, and the float, but also through the halls of Falls Church High School everyday.

Sophomore spirit was easy to find; all you had to do was look at any sophomore.

"To Sweat or Not to Sweat"

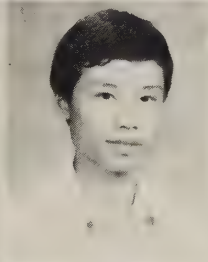

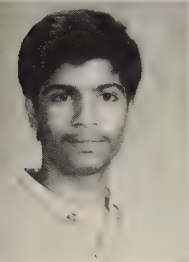

This is the question. Although Sophomores were thankful for a lot of things that came with the new year. The thing that was expressed most often was that this was the last year to take gym class. A majority of sophomores were extremely outspoken about their intense dislike of gym class. One sophomore commented, "It's not my most favorite class during the day, but the class does seem to go by really fast."

Although most sophomores agree that they can't wait until they don't have to "dress out" everyday, it sure will be strange without gym class in their junior year schedule.

A Dream or A Nightmare?

Although Sophomore year means Driver's Education, students look forward to actually driving, more than to Driver's Ed. After the first couple of weeks, many of the students began to change their opinion of Driver's Ed. "Driver's Ed. is cool as long as you pass", said Sophomore Kang Tran.

In terms of passing, the requirements are different this year. You must pass ALL tests and turn in ALL written assignments. Even though there are tough requirements, many people still think it is a waste of time. "It is all common sense. You'll pass as long as you don't think too much," said first quarter Driver's Ed. student Jane Kim.

If it is all so easy why does,

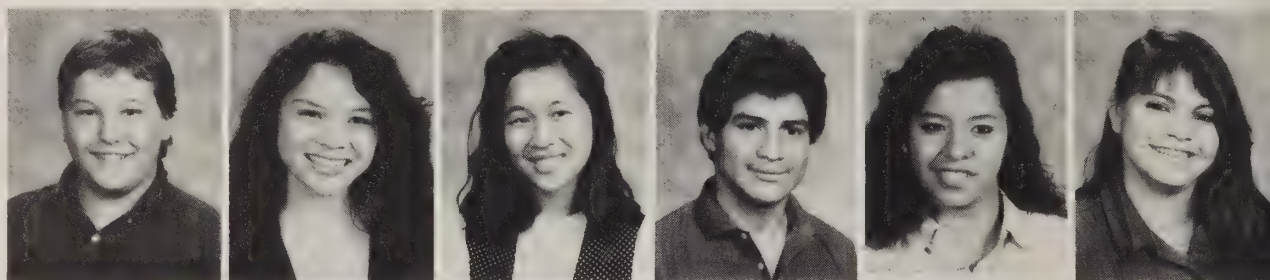

Driver's Ed. teacher, Mr. Humphries say that there is a ten percent failure rate? "People just don't do the work or study," explains Mr. Humphries.

If you are among the many who are upset about the new requirements, don't be. Mr. Humphries added some requirements, but he eliminated some of the others. Students no longer have projects or the many worksheets that were required last year. This eliminated about three to four hours of homework per week.

No matter what, there will always be those students who dread Driver's Ed. but remember, you can't get in the driver's seat without passing the class.

Sophomore Superiority?

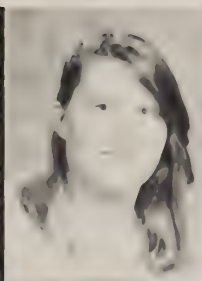

For most tenth graders the second year of high school was not much different from their freshman year. They were still looked upon as inferior by the upperclassmen. While the Juniors and Seniors had complete superiority over the Sophomores, they were still waiting for their moment to come. Although they were lower on the ladder and still had two more years of high school to face, there were some advantages of being a tenth grader. Most sophomores turn sixteen before their junior year begins and will be sitting in the drivers seat before long. This was one of the major things that sophomores waited for. The sophomore year was also the last year of gym; no more dressing out. Ten years of gym is enough for anyone!

To sum it up the sophomore year was not the best, but it sure beats being a freshman!

JUNIORS

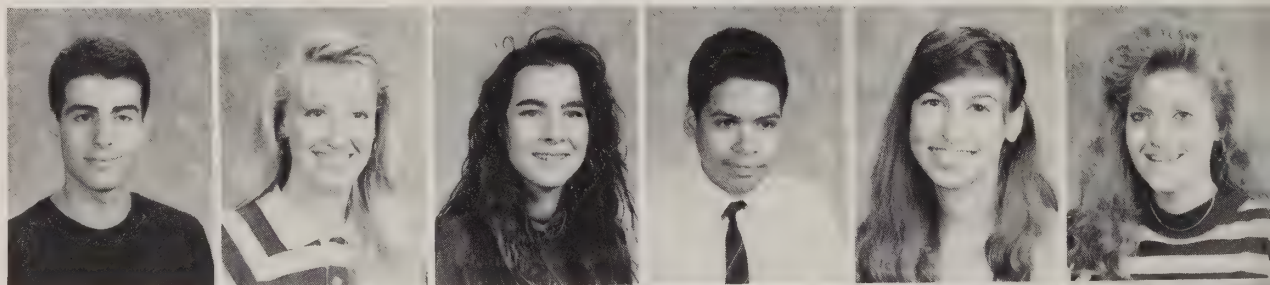

Rrrrringggg Time!

Your alarm goes off; it's 6:00 A.M. The day you have been waiting for is finally here! You rush to get ready and try to remember everything you need, but it is impossible. All you can think about is what you are going to be getting at lunch. The day . . . seems . . . to . . . go . . . by . . . extremely . . . slow. All you . . . can . . . do . . . is . . . stare . . . at . . . the . . . clock . . . You make it through the classes that seemed to have lasted forever. You run to the cafeteria, and finally . . . you get your class ring. Now the waiting is over. All that is left to do is to get 92 people to turn it. Whether the sides display sports, academics, or a zodiac sign, everything about it is a symbol of you. You admire its perfection, show it to all your friends and drink in all the comments. When all is said and done and your ring is locked, you look for that special someone to give it to.

Brian Stuebner is going to wake up with a "pain in the neck" if he keeps sleeping in that position.

Sleep-A-Thon

There was a big party last night that you couldn't miss. You got a little carried away and didn't get home until two a.m. You figured that a few hours of sleep would do. WRONG. You oversleep, can't find your keys, and end up late for school. You run to your first period class and try to think of a good excuse to give your teacher, but she probably won't buy it. You sit down and realize what a headache you have. To make matters worse, the teacher is giving a lecture on a subject you can't stand.

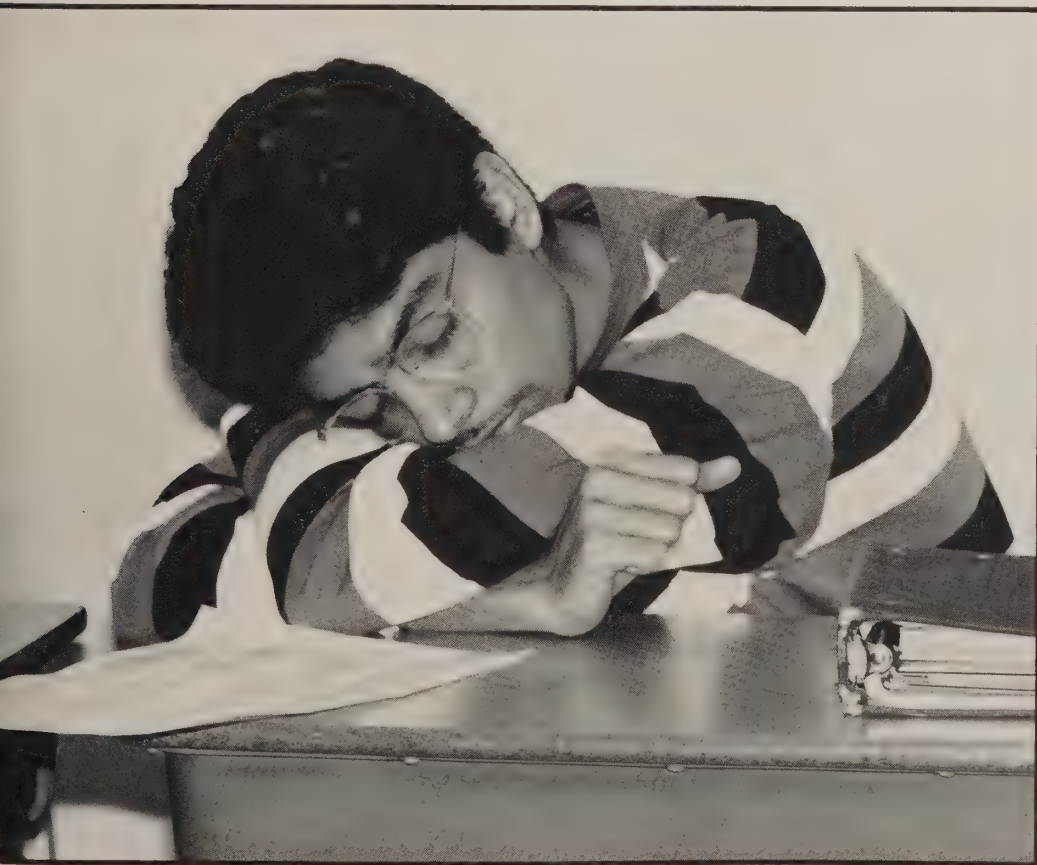

What do you do? Go crazy? Fake a stomach ache and go to the clinic? Go to the bathroom and never come back? No, you sleep. Almost all of us have done it. We shut our eyes for a while and enter La - La - Land.

So, what's the problem here? Why don't we just go out every night and sleep in class? because getting is no fun. You might have to serve detention and clean desks or write, "I will not sleep in class," one hundred times on the board.

Don't worry, many students have come up with ways of not getting caught. One student commented, "I put a big stack of books in front of my face." Another student said, "I hide behind someone big."

Will Sleeping in class ever end? Of course not. No matter what extremes teachers go to, students will win in the end!

Patty Pardo feels that the lecture in Psychology class is not for her.

"Zzzzzzzzz," is what is on A.K.'s mind instead of his school work.

Pursuit and Capture

As Cindy spies Tom walking through the halls, many thoughts run through her mind. Should she talk to him, wink, or maybe just bump into him? What to do?

Flirting. Why do people do it? Is it out of boredom, or is it for fun? As one junior commented, "People flirt to get attention from those they like and want to be noticed by." Another commented, "For no other reason than to have fun."

When students were asked what their favorite forms of flirting were, a variety of answers came back. These replies included dropping hints in conversation, calling about "homework," smiling, making eye contact, and winking. Not all students feel comfortable with these flirting methods, but everyone questioned had a favorite way to flirt with that someone special.

Will we ever know what the real reason is behind flirting? Probably not. One junior explained, "Who cares why it's done, it's just done." Flirting is as American as baseball, Mom, and apple pie, and it's obviously here to stay.

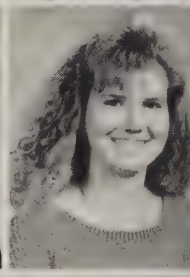

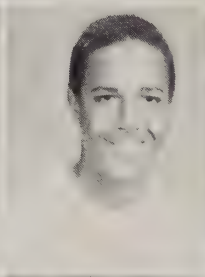

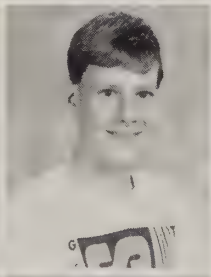

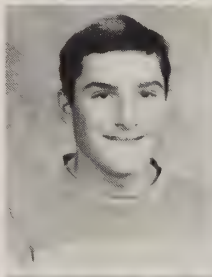

Richard Corker and Scott Walker make themselves obvious to a girl walking down the hall.

“Have you got a No. 2 pencil?”

It's Saturday morning. You don't want to get up but you do anyway. You walk slowly to your bathroom and think, "I'm not quite ready for this." You pick out a Tee-shirt and a pair of pants. You finish dressing and make your breakfast because your family is still sleeping. After finishing breakfast you look at the clock. "Oh, my gosh, I'm late!" You rush to school. The teacher shows you your seat, gives you your test, smiles and tells you, "Good luck."

Each year most juniors face the agony of having to take the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT). Some take it to qualify for the National Merit Scholarship, while others take it in preparation for the SAT's. Most colleges require SAT scores in order to be considered for entry.

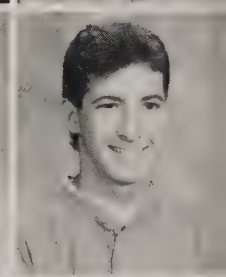

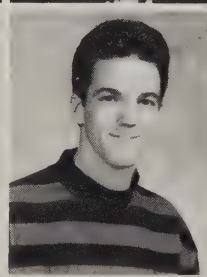

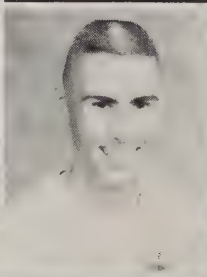

In effort to raise their scores, some students take the test up to five times while others take prep courses. After taking SAT's for the first time, one junior commented, "It was the hardest test I've ever had to take."

We Finally Made It

Now that we have reached the final step before entering the real world, it is hard to believe that we are really here. Although our high school years seemed to drag on, it seems like just yesterday that we were little freshmen. Since the time has now come for us to graduate and move on, the thought of leaving the school that we have attended for the past few years, is a little scary. However, this feeling of anxiety does not stay long because the excitement of graduation has pushed it from our minds. So watch out world, after June 13, the senior jags will be on the loose!

Where Do We Go From Here?!

When the 1991 seniors were asked what their future plans were for after high school, there were many different ideas. Some seniors thought that they would rather wait a year before going to college. Other seniors had already set their minds on working full time or joining the armed forces. Some even had plans to settle down with a family. However, most seniors saw attending a college, right after graduation, as the only goal they were aiming for.

For those seniors planning on furthering their education, the reality became apparent once they actually sat down to decide on the right college. The idea that one can relax during the last year of their formal education is a rather cruel myth. Their days and nights were filled with dreaded thoughts of exams, application deadlines, college essays, and final attempts toward high grades. Then, there was the extra load of school work which came along with this year's seventh period. Whatever happened to the little time left for recreation?

One good thing that came out of this hectic year was the relief felt after every deadline was met. But this was not the last of it. There was still the anticipation that came with waiting for news of acceptance from a college.

Whatever paths this year's seniors choose to follow, it is in hope that they've made the right choice and we wish them the best of luck in the future.

Senior Rights?

IF YOU COULD MAKE-UP YOUR SENIOR PRIVILEGES, WHAT WOULD THEY BE?

1. Seniors can go off campus for lunch... the three minutes just doesn't cut it.

2. Seniors should be able to take over the school for a day at least twice a year.

3. Being stressed out and on the verge of going insane should be an acceptable excuse for not having your homework.

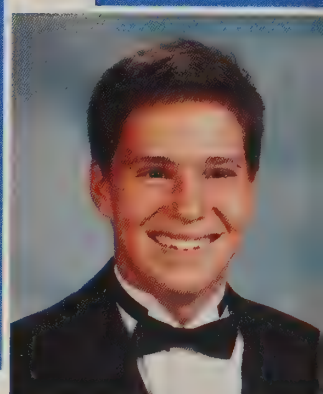

4. Being able to leave 20 minutes early on Fridays.

5. Seniors get to keep their skip days and they are automatically excused.

6. Seniors start classes at 8:00 a.m.

"The most memorable thing about my first two years at Falls Church High School has been the wonderful student body. In spite of all the disruptions and inconveniences that resulted from renovation, the students have remained optimistic and happy and have cooperated with the staff and with their fellow students to make Falls Church High School a great place for teaching and learning."

A Class Act

New teacher, Miss Watts, appears nervous at her first FCHS faculty meeting.

The Day: September 4, 1990

The Time: 7:30 a.m.

The Place: Falls Church H.S.

The first bell has just rung and students are busy finishing up conversations, picking up schedules, and searching for their classrooms. What, Who's this? Yes . . . no . . . it can't be . . . a NEW teacher! What will he or she be like? Will he or she be easy or hard? skinny or fat? Will they give lots of homework? All these questions go through a students mind.

So what is it that is going through a new teacher to Falls Church High School's mind? "The first day of school I was excited and nervous. I had my classroom ready, but I thought, was I ready for all these new students?"

As the year progressed, the new teachers became part of the F.C. family. The teachers realized that they had been ready for the students, and as they taught, students learned. "Everyone here is so friendly; the students are dedicated and the staff is always willing to help."

Falls Church teachers are a special group. There are few schools you'll find where the teachers, veterans and rookies alike, care so much about student success!

Bob Margrave always smiles, even on teacher workdays.

Activities Director, Fran Bement, and Principal, Harry Holsinger, talk about how to raise students' morale.

A camera shy Steve Tran is caught concentrating at a math meet.

One of the responsibilities of the Key Club was maintaining the new marquis as was frequently done by Kathy Updike.

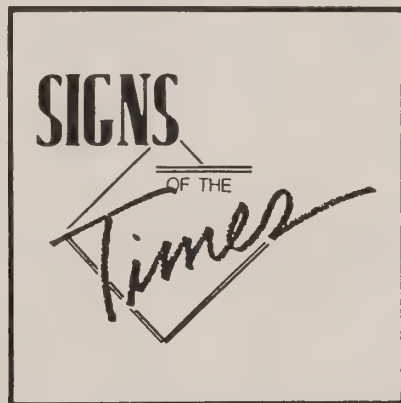

Mike Evans tries to get into the picture with a very enthusiastic Colleen Morris while at a Student Government meeting.

Clubs

Club members accomplish more together than they can individually. They combine effort, skills, and creativity to reach common goals such as community service or pleasure in mutual interests. By participating in clubs, students learn valuable skills and discover the pride of accomplishment.

The central focus of most clubs is participation in common interests. For example, some students meet regularly to talk politics, sing, or learn about different cultures.

After school meetings give students a good excuse to fit socializing into their busy schedule as well.

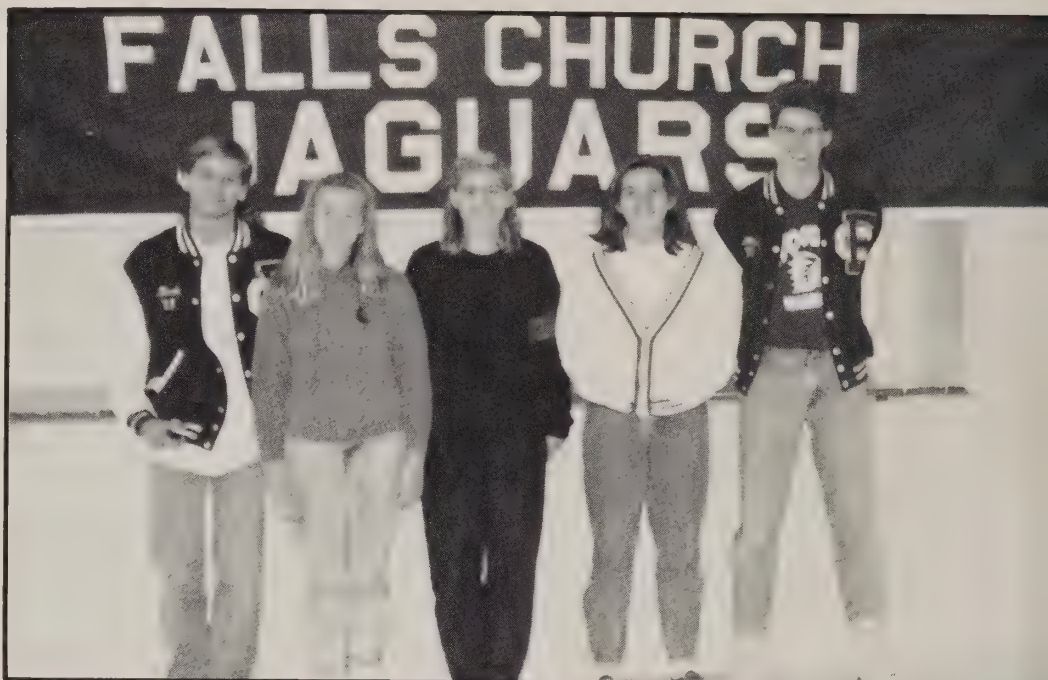

In addition to pursuing their own interest, club members give time and energy to the school and community in various service projects. From SADD's efforts to publicize the dangers of drugs and alcohol to GIVE's work at homeless shelters, service projects were valuable contributions.

The satisfaction in making a difference in the school and the community, and the excitement of meeting new people with similar interests add immeasurably to students enjoyment of the school year. Activities were an essential part of high school life.

Leaders of the Pack

The SAC (Student Advisory Council) is the single most powerful political association a student can be a part of. With influence into the school board and subsequently upon the school superintendent himself, the actions of the SAC are reflected directly upon the schools. The office of a council member is a great responsibility but not one that interferes seriously with the students school achievements. When elected to the school based five member council a student automatically becomes a part of the area SAC which meets once a month for a year in an effort to choose platform issues, conduct intensive studies and recommend actions to area superintendent. As a whole the SAC is an opportunity for politically oriented students to become aware of school issues and problems and know that their actions are being heard and implemented.

SGA is also an important contribution to FCHS. The student government consisted of two seniors, two juniors, and one sophomore. These five dedicated officers were in charge of elections at the end of the year, Homecoming game and dance, Sweetheart dance and Pride Week. The SAC and SGA members are people who take pride in their school.

CLASS OFFICERS

Class officers are an integral part of student life. The class officers are elected from within a class. They work to organize dances, contests, candy sales and an enormous array of fundraisers. Starting as freshmen, a class's biggest project is the prom. This year's freshman class was no exception; they decided to start with the never failing candy sales. The sophomore class was a tad-bit conservative with the car washes, but they took a great step to boost school spirit by doing face paintings before the home football games. The junior class once again gave the students a chance to sing the latest hit songs in the lip-sync contest, which proved to be fun and profitable. The senior class had little worries, since they payed for the prom last year, except for their class gift to the school. All in all, most activities would not be successful without the hard work of the class officers.

Giving Clubs

SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving) and GIVE (Getting Involved In Voluntary Endeavors) are two clubs that successfully reached out to others in a voluntary manner.

SADD has done many things to influence the idea that driving while intoxicated is a bad idea. They had what is called "Dead Day," where club members of SADD dressed in all black and were silent for an entire school day. This was to symbolize the many deaths associated with drunk driving and was an effective project in the end. SADD has also made banners, sold tee-shirts and distributed red ribbons for MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving) to other students against drunk driving. They also attended a Youth Congress, which included many other organizations in the area.

GIVE, in addition to SADD, has been an extremely effective organization. GIVE made weekly trips to Carpenter's Shelter and Leewood Nursing Home. They tutored ESL students after school and helped organized the canned food drive.

Both these respective clubs did great deeds to make 1990-91 a worthwhile year.

The Key To Caring

"I chose to be in the Key Club because I liked the activities that they had planned," explained Amy Roszak. "Although the Key Club is the same in some aspects, it's different from last year in that it's more serious," commented President Karen Morris. "We had a lot more participation this year and the members seemed more motivated," agreed Treasurer Karen Evans.

The canned food drive and the Sadie Hawkins Dance were the Key Club's major projects this year. "The increased involvement and enthusiasm from members made all the projects not only successful, but enjoyable as well," Andy Birkenstock said. The fun of being together and working hard on the projects made all the time members spent with the club worthwhile.

Teens Against World Destruction (TAWD) is again striving to broaden the minds of other teens on the topic of the planet Earth. To do this TAWD held many seminars throughout the year on various topics concerning the environment, in which everyone was invited.

Activities that TAWD organized included decorating the front showcase, providing boxes in classrooms for recycling cans and paper, taking trips to local parks, woods and creeks to clean up the trash and pollution around the area, and participating in Earth Day.

Through all these activities, TAWD tried to help everyone understand the importance of cleaning up the environment, especially on an individual level.

Experiencing the World

Your plane lands in Madrid . . . maybe even in Paris. What are you going to do? What are you going to say? If you had joined the Spanish or French club at Falls Church H.S. you would have a good background for travel. Joining either the French club or the Spanish club has many great outcomes. Not only do you learn about the different cultures of the French and Spanish, but you get a clearer perspective about the world around you. The clubs participated in many different activities. They took field trips, experienced delicious native treats, and tasted both French and Spanish cuisine. The French and Spanish clubs allow students to learn about travel, food and having fun. But above all, they learn how to communicate with others and how to romance the world with a different language.

Grammar At Its Best

The English Club, sponsored by Mrs. Yim, met every other Wednesday to compete. It consisted of four teams with four or five members on each team. The teams would meet in the cafeteria and take quizzes that vary in length from two to seven minutes. The quizzes consisted of vocabulary, literary analysis, grammar, synonyms and antonyms, reading comprehension, and sentence completion. Each team received points for correct answers, and the team with the most points would win for the day. Junior Ben Davidson said, "It's great preparation for the SAT's."

It's Off To Work We Go

The Cooperative Office Education (COE) program allows students to work in a business located within the community and receive credit and salary for their work. The coordinator, Mrs. Messinger, said, "COE offers students the opportunity to apply the skills they learn in school in an office setting as well as gaining invaluable on-the-job experiences." Several employers that participated in this program were Fairfax County Public Schools, Fairfax Hospital, and Town and Country Realtors.

Into The Future

F.T.C. (Future Teachers Club) is for those high school students who are interested in making teaching a career. This year the clubs sponsor was Ms. Leutbecker who planned field trips to schools, helped plan guest speakers, student tutoring, and various service projects.

F.H.A. (Future Homemakers of America) and H.E.R.O. (Home Economics Related Occupations) are co-curricular classes which can be taken through the Home Economics Department. These clubs worked hard throughout the year preparing for their New York trip, which gives them first-hand experience with the different trades involved and related with Gourmet Foods. Once again, Mrs. Laviolette sponsored both F.H.A. and H.E.R.O.

VICA (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America) provides opportunities for students to increase their leadership skills. VICA sponsors a skills contest called Skills Olympics on a district, state, national, and international level. They work on community service projects. The club is supported by local industries where students can take employment opportunities. They also work on fundraisers such as selling donuts.

The club is open to males and females. The officers meet once a week and current 12 members meet once or twice a month. By joining this club, students are insuring themselves a bright and prosperous future.

DECA (Distributive Educational Clubs of America) is a program of student activity relating to marketing education and is designed to develop future leaders in the marketing field. They sold stocking stuffers and holiday grams as a fundraiser. 10 of the students in DECA also went to New York City to expand their marketing skills. They participated in competitive events and they also worked on promoting the Sports and Entertainment class for next year.

Model Judiciary

Mrs. Linda Driscoll has been the sponsor of the Model Judiciary for the past four years. Model Judiciary competes in a state wide competition each year. This competition involves live trials in court. One of the trials was held in a Fairfax County Court concerning the issue of "Locker Search." Because of the team's victory, they were able to move up to a state supreme court level. Due to the talent and determination of each member, the Falls Church Model Judiciary team has won five out of the past six years.

Peer Relations

Sponsored by Mrs. Laviolette for the past few years, Peer Relations has helped a great deal of students with their problems- whether it be about school, friends or family life. Students are encouraged to express their thoughts and feelings while other members try to solve them through discussion. Peer Relations was developed to help those students in need. Through their experiences in the class, both members and other students learn a great deal and feel good about themselves in the end.

The OAS team is made up of 10 students; 5 delegates and 5 alternates. The OAS is an association of 30-Latin American Countries. This year, F.C.H.S. was chosen to represent the Bahamas. The OAS team started preparing for the Model OAS in Sept. by attending weekly meetings with their sponsor, Mrs. Fee. The Model OAS was held this year on Nov. 15, 16, and 17, in Washington, D.C. The team spent 2 nights at the State Plaza Hotel and attended Model OAS sessions at the OAS building.

Model U.N. team consists of approximately 12 students. These students participated in about 3-4 United Nations meets with other high school students at various times and places throughout the school year. The sponsor of the Model U.N., Mrs. Canavan, helped the team to prepare for the meets. One of the most exciting countries that the team represented this year was China.

Both the OAS and U.N. teams focused on creating resolutions for improving, not only one country, but the OAS or the U.N. as a whole. Most of these resolutions dealt with judicial, political, economic, social, educational, scientific, cultural, administrative, and budget matters. In short, they focused on almost every aspect of life. However, the main focus of both of the groups were to strive for peace for everyone throughout the world.

Shelby Gonzalez and Bobby Preston discuss their strategy for passing a resolution in the next committee session.

Tomorrows Leaders

The Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) is a co-curricular club designed to help students gain a broader understanding of the business world. This year's officers were: President: Gianni LaRosa; Vice President: Terrie Duong; Treasurer: Max Nguyen; and Secretary: Natacha Carter. FBLA holds meetings once a month alternating periods during the school day. This year's theme was "Entrepreneurship". At each meeting speakers for different business careers or business owners spoke to the club. Through these meetings students were able to gather first-hand knowledge about the business world. FBLA also sponsors activities to help the school. FBLA sponsored a fundraiser in order to purchase computer equipment for the new business wing. Each October FBLA sponsors the "Ugly Teacher Contest". Teachers dress up and students vote for the ugliest teacher by giving them spare change. The teacher with the most money (votes) is declared the Ugliest Teacher. This year Ms. Barretto was the Ugliest Teacher. The money raised is donated to the FBLA Scholarship Fund. This year FBLA participated in the "Tie One On" campaign sponsored by M.A.D.D. FBLA gave red ribbons to all faculty, staff, and FBLA members as well as passing them out during lunch to interested students. Students were encouraged to tie the red ribbons on their car antennas. FBLA is soaring high into a safe future.

Making the School a Success

Student Leadership is a group of students dedicated to improving communication, spirit, and the reputation of FCHS. It is sponsored by Mrs. LaViolette and Mrs. Dabney, with the help of other school team members.

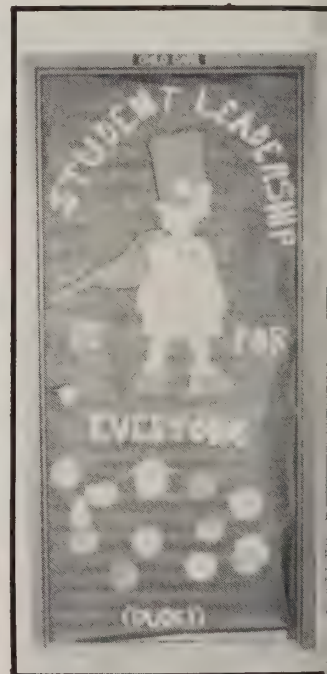

To start the year off, Student Leadership took students to Camp Hemlock in Clifton, Va. There, the students were able to get to know one another and establish work plans. Their plans were successful as was evident through their many projects. To improve community relations, many students ate lunch with senior citizens twice a month. Save-A-Sweetheart, the anti-smoking campaign, increased in student participation. The Spirit Dance, held in conjunction with Pride Week, promoted school spirit. Others worked on International Night to increase cultural awareness. More students came to Guinness Day to make and break school records. The Drug Awareness Program visited area elementary schools and junior highs to educate the students about drugs. F.C.H.S. has been improving in looks and reputation day by day. We thank Student Leadership for their dedication and contributions to the school, they will always be appreciated.

Even though the Young Republicans and the Young Democrats share a similar dream, to make the world a better place to live using politics, they have different political outlooks. The Young Democrats consider themselves liberal, while the Young Republicans consider themselves conservative.

The two parties enjoy getting together for debates to argue their views. Although they don't always agree on the different beliefs, they both feel everyone has the right to speak their mind as well as the right to be heard.

Creatively Speaking

"Friends, Romans, Countrymen. Lend me your ears." Members on the Forensics Team compete in high competition with other teams from other schools throughout the Northern Virginia area. They give dramatic readings of poetry and prose with five to thirty minutes to prepare themselves for each reading. A panel of judges give points for the best performances and the school with the most points wins the competition. Mrs. Bergeron, enthusiastic about this year's team, worked very hard to live up to last years reputation. "The Forensics Team teaches the members to hone the skills needed for overall communication especially in the areas of business, drama, and broadcasting," she said.

The Literary Magazine is a publication by the students for the students. Submissions, ranging from art to essays, are considered by the members for publication in the Magazine. Once all the submissions are chosen, the members design the magazine layout and set it up on the computer. It is then sent to the publisher, and the finished book gets returned for distribution throughout the school. Co-Editor Betsy Rosenblatt said, "It has been fun reading all the bizarre submissions, but it is hard to decide what goes in the Literary Magazine."

The Falls Church High School Orchestra consists of seven talented people. The seven positions are three violins, three violas, and one cello player. These dedicated musicians practiced with the Fairfax H.S. orchestra for two hours during a two-week period. They did this in order to prepare for their performance with Fairfax for the annual winter concert. They also performed for the Government Reception which was held on November 29, 1991. The orchestra joined with Paul VI H.S. and our own school band for the spring concert. The orchestra has been doing a wonderful job under the guidance of Ms. Alexandra Segers. We hope to see more people come out for orchestra in the upcoming year.

Marching to the Beat

The Falls Church High School Band has entertained us, once again, throughout the year. They treated us to numerous performances; from formal concerts to creating an exciting atmosphere for our pep rally's. At the end of the summer, the entire band, under the command of drum major, Katherine Witham, attended a band camp at Orkney Springs. While at this camp, the band not only received respectable marks for their performances, but more importantly, they learned techniques for which to make their audiences more attentive to their playing.

While under director

Steve Mietus, the band is continuing to grow. As they are growing, they are also becoming a recognizable trait of Falls Church High School.

Name That Tune

The Falls Church High School chorus department has gone through serious changes in the past year. The biggest change of all was the arrival of a new director, Mrs. Wiest-Parthun. "Mrs. P always emphasizes the positive and helps everyone sing their best every day," commented Amy Roszak. Rachel Riddles agrees, "You can tell just by working with her that she's really professional. And this attitude rubs off onto both the chorus-es."

The show chorus, or the "Jazzy Jags", had a surge in numbers. Seventeen singers added a lot of talent to the small group of last year. "Since we only had 7 last year, the amount of singers really makes it different. Plus, having 4 male voices adds a lot," commented Sarah Dame. Another difference in the show chorus was the packed schedule of performances. During the holidays, the group performed up to 4 times a week.

Like the show chorus, the biggest strength of the concert chorus was its numbers. The chorus grew from last years 19 singers to 34 singers this year. "The best change in the concert chorus this year was the quality of sound," explained Celia Hanley. "Mrs. P. taught us to listen to ourselves and strive for our best sound possible.

Mrs. P. comments, "I think that Plato described music best—Music (singing) is a moral law. It gives soul to the universe, wings to the mind, flight to the imagination, a charm to sadness, gaiety and life to everything. It is the essence of order and lends to all that is good, just, and beautiful." This is what our choral department is all about."

Crowding around the piano, several concert chorus singers perform their piece in class to perfect it for their performance.

Andy Birkenstock, Mark Meadows and Mike Evans sing out during the holiday concert.

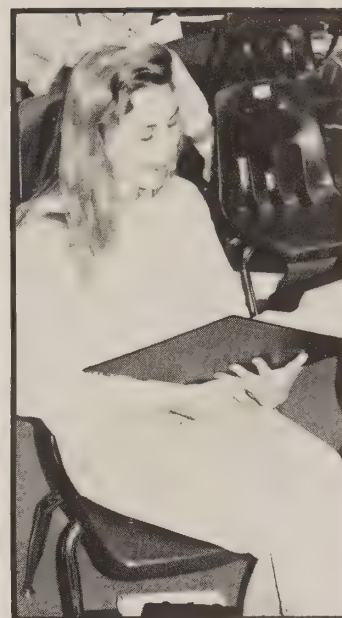

Practice makes perfect! Rehearsing for district chorus show chorus members Melissa Morris and Rachel Riddles practice to perfect their voices.

They're More Than You Think

The Drama Department

The dictionary says that Drama is the art of acting, but at Falls Church it is much, much more. Yes, Drama Students do act, but they also do a variety of other things from community service to going on extended field trips.

The drama department's yearly fundraiser, held in November, was called community service day. Drama members went around to the FCHS neighborhoods to do odd jobs for people. There was no charge for these services, although donations were appreciated. This past March there was also the annual trip to Radford University, sight of the Thespian Conference. This was three days and two nights of performances and workshops. It was great fun and everybody had a blast.

Two of the most important events were the shows produced. The fall play was "The Crucible," and the spring musical "Oliver". Each production required many hours of hard work and dedication that payed off with success in the end! This proves that the show must go on.

Community

Where do you go in your free time? To work, to the movies, to a fast food restaurant? Wherever you go, it's part of our community.

The ever growing Northern Virginia area offers Falls Church students a variety of exciting opportunities, from shopping malls, eateries and movie theaters, to much, much more. These many businesses developing in our community give students first hand experience at the variety of jobs available throughout the year.

Another opportunity that our community gives to students that most seem to enjoy is volunteering. Students can volunteer at many places including day care centers, retirement homes, and hospitals.

While students give their time to the community, by volunteering and working, the community also gives back. Students gain valuable experience by working with others, and dealing with situations that they will experience later on in life.

In Falls Church, the lines between community life and student life MERGE together.

Preparing for Tomorrow

Believe it or not, Falls Church High School students are active in the community. They can be found volunteering at hospitals, day care centers, libraries, and retirement homes. Others work cleaning up at parks, pumping gas or cashiering and working at local supermarkets.

In return, the community supports Falls Church at sports events and during fundraisers, among other things. Local police and ambulance crews are at the games, as are the referees that catch the penalties. Both Providence Recreation Center and Jefferson Golf Course let the swim and golf teams, respectively, use their facilities.

Interaction with the community is an excellent representation of how Falls Church High School students prepare to enter tomorrow's world.

Taken By Surprise

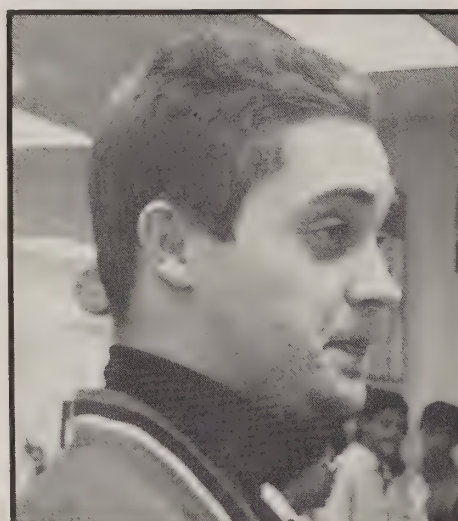

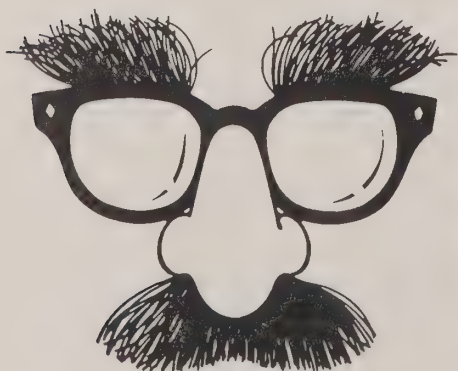

The photography staff has taken a multitude of pictures throughout the year. We thought we would share with you some of the funniest faces of Falls Church High School. This just proves that students can take time out of thier busy schedules to have fun. We hope you enjoy them as much as we have.

Julian Ackert says, "Look Mom, no hands!"

"Oh gosh, I need a vacation."

Only Tracy Howdershell can make a face like this.

Things that make you go hmmmmmm.

A look of intensity comes over Mark Meadows' face while dancing.

Vogue

If there is one thing that you can't say about Falls Church High School, it is that we're common. The diversity of personalities makes each and every student unique, and what a better way to represent one's self than by the way you dress. Looking good is important but you always need a sense of humor. After all, school can be fun.

Gary Parks asks, "Is that Bloomingdales I see?" to Mike Marshall, his faithful companion.

Alyn Vaughan takes on a feminine role during a pep-rally.

Jason Lamp . . . looking spiffy!!

Brian Lema makes a fashion statement in the hall with his guitar.

Working for Tomorrow

Although the 1990-91 year has ended, the memories that we gained from our times at Falls Church High School will always live in our hearts and minds. Such memories include new teachers, the first Jaguar football victory in two years, and time spent with friends.

However, the memories don't stop within the walls of Falls Church High School. Throughout most of the year, American flags and yellow ribbons constantly reminded us of the men and women that served in the Persian Gulf.

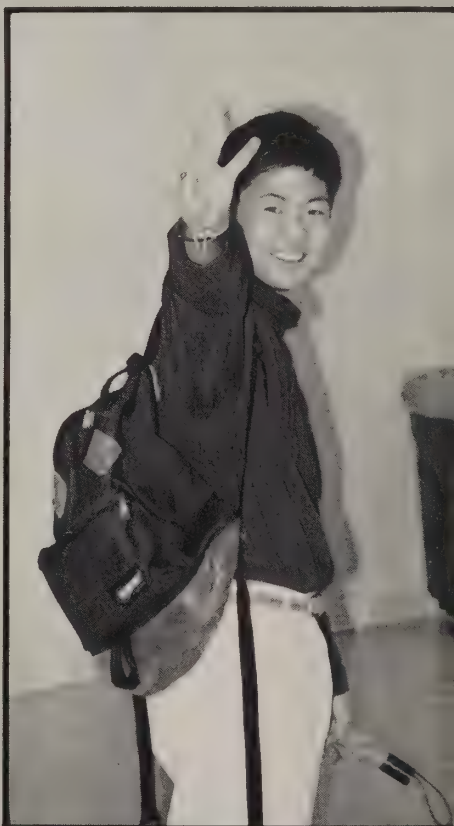

While some look forward to returning to Falls Church next year, others anticipate new challenges in the life ahead of them. Not only do we say goodbye to those graduating seniors, but to our faithful principal of three years, Mr. Harry Holsinger.

Throughout both good and bad times that accompanied the school year, we learned more about ourselves and about those around us, helping us grow closer together and uniting the school. These were the SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

Pressured to make the right college decisions, senior John Flynn uses the career center to his advantage.

Having been cooped up all day in classrooms, students are struck with spring fever as they leave the school building.

American flags and yellow ribbons were a common sight in the Falls Church community.

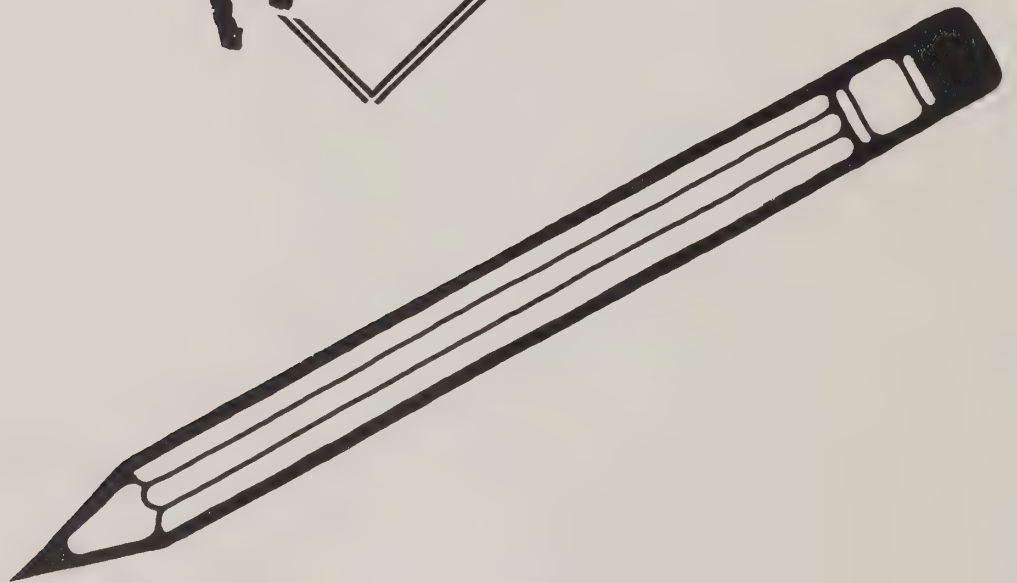

Senior Martin Carmouze joins Miss Barretto to hang out in a friendly UPS truck.

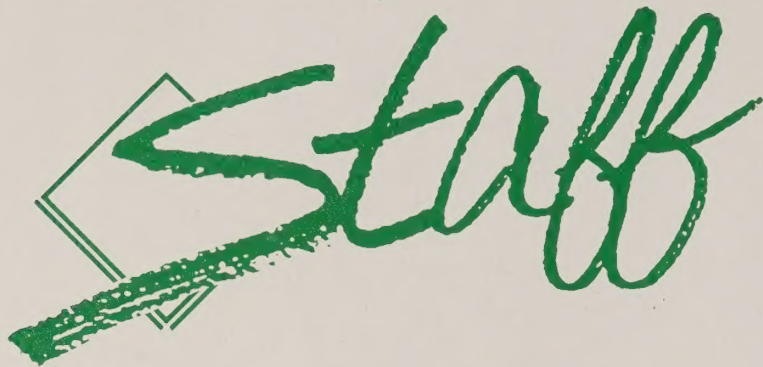

Friendship is essential to surviving high school, as demonstrated by friends Judy Rugh and Leah Klass.
